CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Lifted aloft beautifully by a Thor-Delta rocket, a satellite called Relay slid into orbit Thursday night and soaked up solar energy in preparation for a series of communications experiments linking three continents.

A little more than three hours after liftoff, as relay completed its first trip around the earth, a spokesman for the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it was in orbit and "the orbit looks extremely close to nominal."

CHRISTMAS TV

First contact with Relay will be made today. If all goes well, the public will witness a Christmas television spectacular linking 11 countries in Europe and North America through Relay next Wednesday. The program will feature Yuletide preparations on both continents.

Relay is a first cousin to the Europe-U.S. linking Telstar satellite.

'Heart' Built In Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—A 150-man team of Canadian engineers and technicians built the vital receiver-transmitter of the relay communications satellite.

John D. Boudling, president of RCA Victor Company Limited of Canada, developer of the "heart," said "all Canadians can take personal pride in the launching of Relay I."

The Canadian team was led by Bruce MacKinnon, head of the company's technical division, and James S. Brooks, the project manager.

Question Marks

Bennett Vote Date His Best Weapon

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Facing a two-pronged attack capable of extinguishing Social Credit's light in B.C., Premier Bennett's most effective weapon is his prerogative to name the date of the next provincial election.

He has from now until late in 1965 to go to the people and already some newspapers are speculating on whether he will go early or late. Such speculation is not of the usual once-removed-from-fact variety but is twice removed because it must anticipate what the premier will decide and not what he has decided.

For if there is one certainty on B.C.'s ever-changing political scene it is that no election timing has yet jelled. Premier Bennett is regarded even among his foes as an astute political strategist and he would hardly crystallize his tactics without the knowledge to be gained from the Dec. 17 Vancouver Point Grey by-election and the legislative session which commences Jan. 24.

The current crop of election

Vancouver Plan

Tube to Link North Shore

VANCOUVER (CP)—A proposal for a $50,000,000 tunnel and bridge harbor crossing between Vancouver and suburban North Shore communities was unveiled Thursday by Premier Bennett.

It would involve a tunnel 4,000 feet long, and a man-made 200-acre island near the harbor entrance. Financing would be handled privately by the two firms proposing to build the project.

Their venture has "the full sympathy" of the government, Mr. Bennett said.

BRIDGE PRESENT

The province would in turn hand over the First Narrows bridge—one of the two existing crossings to North and West Vancouver—to the municipalities concerned.

An early start could see the tunnel finished in four years. Companies involved are Christiani and Nielson of Canada Ltd. and Foundation of Canada Engineering Corp. Ltd.

RUN TO ISLAND

A spokesman for Christiani and Nielson said the four-lane tunnel would run from West Vancouver to the island, where traffic would take a bridge to Vancouver.

The three-lane First Narrows bridge—known as Lion's Gate—now serves West Vancouver with considerable rush-hour delay.

Negro Toll Now 13

PHETORIA, South Africa (AP)—Negroes undergoing a police search in a railway car hacked a white officer to death Thursday, touching off a battle in which seven Negroes were shot and killed, officials reported.

Three white policemen on the train were wounded by the Negroes with long knives and firearms. Two of the policemen suffered bullet wounds, police said.

Six Negroes were killed and three white policemen were wounded Wednesday in an armed clash near the home of Matarazina, a senior tribal chief.

Parrott Greeted

Congratulating a new council member, Parrott, right, on his election to city council last night, are incumbent aldermen Arthur Dowell, left, Austin Curtis and A. W. Toome, who were re-elected.

Newcomer Joins Council Veterans

Three incumbents were re-elected and a newcomer filled the fourth city council seat last night as 30 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots in Victoria civic elections.

Ald. Austin Curtis topped the poll with 4,307 votes in the count at midnight. He was returned for a fifth term on council.

Ald. A. W. Toome, winning his second term, tallied 4,131 votes to finish just ahead of veteran Ald. Arthur Dowell.

Ald. Dowell won a seventh council term with a total of 4,008 votes.

The fourth council seat was won by Cecil Parrott, who trailed far behind with 2,669 votes. He was successful on his third bid for election as an alderman.

Other candidates who finished out of the running were Robert Baird, 2,325 votes; former alderman Elmer McEwen, 2,029 votes; Victor Williams, 1,970 votes.

Four-to-One for Project CIVIC SQUARE DRAWS BIG 'YES'

By IAN STREET

Victoria last night surged into its second century of municipal government with a smashing four-to-one endorsement by ratepayers of the Centennial Square civic plaza project.

"The city is on the move," said a jubilant Mayor R. B. Wilson. "This magnificent endorsement of the scheme is a clear indication that the people of Victoria want immediate action, which city council will provide." (See Page 2.)

QUICK ACTION

Ald. A. W. Toome, in charge of planning the project, and one of three incumbents who won re-election last night, said his committee will meet Monday to implement the mandate given to council.

"This is the first indication of solid progress towards a more beautiful and economically healthy Victoria," he said. The vote on the bylaw to give council authority to borrow up to $850,000 to carry out the project within four years was 4,086 in favor, 1,019 against. It required a 60 per cent majority to pass.

'DELIGHTED'

Ald. Arthur Dowell, also re-elected, said that as chairman of finance he had no doubt yesterday's vote ensured the Centennial Square project will "proceed with all haste." He

Dressless Lass Tricked by Toe

DENVER (UPI)—Linda Jane Hinchman is a freshman at Colorado Women's College here. She is a lovely brunette, 17 years old, from Glenwood, Ind.

She was taking a bath in preparation for the evening meal Thursday night when she decided to stick her toe into the water faucet.

It got stuck.

A distress call brought four Denver squad cars with sirens screaming, fire equipment and ladder crews.

Five Denver firemen charged up the stairs and dashed into the bathroom, by now crowded with giggling girls as well as the well-bundled Miss Hinchman.

Assistant fire chief John de Jong said, "We did our job and got out of there."

The firemen sawed off the faucet and extricated the toe with petroleum jelly.

Miss Hinchman kept the faucet for a souvenir.

Science Tunes Ears For Venus Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mariner II, a 447-pound package of measuring devices and radio equipment, brushed past Venus at 3:01 p.m. EST today, a mere 20,000 miles or so from the planet.

Crossing their fingers against any last-hour difficulty, scientists on both U.S. coasts prepared to eavesdrop on Mariner's 42 minutes of special near-Venus reports.

The coded signals will be relayed to telephone and amplified at a press conference here.

The special data itself will take four weeks or more to analyze.

By then, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration hopes to have gained the first close-at-hand information ever achieved on Venus.

Auction Aids Fund

Toys' Triple Gift

Toys that once were treasured and will be treasured again and toys that are brand, sparkling new start tonight to add their joy to Christmas 1962.

They're the toys that have been donated by Victoria citizens for the giant auction tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Maynard and Sons Auctioneers, 731-3 Johnson.

They'll make their contribution to the season in three ways.

• Proceeds from the auction of all toys donated outright go to swell The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund.

• Customers who join in the auction get a chance to buy toys for their own Christmas trees at a bargain, in most cases. For the selection contains toys in very good condition, with many games, dolls, trucks and trains brand-new.

Donations to the 500 Fund may be brought or mailed to The Daily Colonist at 2631 Douglas or left at Acousticon of Victoria, 740 Yates, during business hours. Donors should specify if they wish to be anonymous. Receipts for income tax purposes will be supplied on request.

• Each buyer also knows that he has helped the 500 unfortunate Victoria families, in straitened circumstances, who will receive a cheque from the 500 Fund.

Buyers will find a giant selection of almost everything possible in toyland up for auction when the sale begins.

Tricycles, a new hockey stick complete with its own puck, wild west cap pistols, roller skates, stuffed animals, all are included.

Maynard's donate their premises and staff and a professional auctioneer for the sale.

More Snow Forecast

South Thaws East Shivers

CHICAGO (AP) — Temperatures moved slightly upward Thursday from the record-shattering overnight lows in the southern United States, but remained below freezing nearly everywhere east of the Mississippi River.

In the northeast, battered for nearly a week by near-continuous snow, bitter cold and powerful winds, another heavy snowfall was forecast.

NEW SNOW WARNING
Ohio and Michigan were directly in the path of the new snow warning. Four to six inches of new snow was forecast for Thursday night. Some communities in the area already have more than 48 inches of snow on the ground.

Freezing temperatures, as low as 10 above zero, covered some 75 per cent of Florida Thursday. A hard freeze was forecast for the northern portion of the state Thursday night, making it the fourth night of crop-killing weather.

ANNESS DAMAGE
The full story of damage to tender winter vegetables, berries and citrus fruits will not be available for two to three weeks, but growers already were assessing their losses in the millions of dollars.

Snow, sleet and temperatures fell in Florida. Tallahassee reported the state's low, 10 above zero.

SEASONAL TEMPERATURES
In the midwest, southwest, plains states and far west seasonal temperatures prevailed Thursday. Some snow flurries and occasional snow squalls occurred over Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

But a slow warming trend was forecast for most of the south today.

OTTAWA — Mr. Justice T. G. Norris directed that executive vice-president Leonard McLaughlin of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) reappear Monday to continue his testimony before the federal inquiry into Great Lakes labor strife.

U.K. Troops Mopping Up

BRUNEI TOWN, Brunei (Reuters) — Britain's 3,000-man task force pushed mopping-up operations against scattered bands of Borneo rebels Thursday but many senior officers feared the military "clean-up" might prove long and costly.

With British troops and marines in possession of most key points in this protectorate and rebel-affected areas of neighboring Sarawak colony, the majority of the hard-core insurgents appeared to have escaped capture and taken to the jungles.

NAPLES, Italy — Police said they have recovered jewels and clothing stolen from the parked car of actor Anthony Quinn's daughter, Katy.

Star Study In Balloon Pacemaking

HOLLOMAN AIR FORCE BASE, N.M. (UPI)—The air force launched a balloon Thursday for a star study one scientist called the greatest astronomical breakthrough since Galileo discovered the true nature of the solar system.

The 20-hour Project Star-gazer was to take astronomer William White and air force Capt. Joseph Kittinger, Jr., the pilot, to an altitude of 16.5 miles in an aluminum gondola below the helium-filled balloon.

NOT THAT HIGH

No previous astronomical research has gone that high. Such an altitude, above 90 to 95 per cent of the atmosphere, would enable white man's first undistorted look at the stars. The balloon was expected to descend from its planned 87,000-foot altitude and land at about 7 a.m. EST. today.

Provinces Urged to Form Common Market

By FRANK DREA

In a speech that has gone virtually unnoticed, Harry J. Waisglass, the nation's foremost labor economist, has warned that Canada must form a common market of its 10 provinces before it can hope to take advantage of the emerging trade blocs.

The Waisglass thesis brands Confederation as a colossal economic failure, since it favors economic regionalism instead of a unified national economy.

"We speak of the Canadian economy as though it were an integrated entity when actually it consists of little more than several regional economies with strongly conflicting interests."

"These are held together rather tenuously by a structure of taxation and subsidies which seeks to redistribute income from the more prosperous to the less prosperous regions," he said.

However, the core of his argument that Canada must develop a national market is that each region has stronger bonds with foreign economies than with other Canadian regions.

"Our so-called national economic policies are hardly national in the sense that they serve to integrate our regional economies," contended Mr. Waisglass.

"Their chief functions are compensatory rather than unifying, since they serve to compensate for regional economic disadvantages, the costs of inter-regional rivalry and political compromises," he said.

He warned that the growth of Canadian industry hinges on expanded trade and the removal of tariffs and other barriers to foreign competition.

National Unity Needed

"Aid is an inadequate substitute for trade," he emphasized. "Canada cannot expect other countries to remove tariffs and other barriers unless we are prepared to grant similar trade concessions."

The first step toward an integrated domestic market would be a new framework that would permit Canada to plan for economic and social progress, said Mr. Waisglass, research director of the United Steelworkers.

"Before we consider joining the European Common Market—and we are not welcome as a member—let us set ourselves with real determination to the long-neglected task of forming a common market for our 10 provinces," he said.

Under current conditions, a province like Ontario has its own trade promotion program," he said.

"Ontario is trying now to balance its trade with the U.S."

and Japan as though it was an autonomous state and the British North America Act did not exist," charged Mr. Waisglass.

He cautioned that the Kennedy trade expansion law will have tremendous impact on the Canadian economy, but that Canada is not prepared for the "inevitable massive trade adjustments."

"The U.S. has a plan, a policy and a program for trade expansion which permits the whole world to know where America is going," he said. "It has set the example for Canada to follow."

Mac's Gamble Fails

Magic Missing

By JANE ARMSTRONG

LONDON—The truth about the British Conservative Party's by-election disasters is that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's personal gamble on recovery has failed.

Now more tarnish settles on the legend of Super Mac and when the inquest has been completed there will remain the growing disillusionment with his leadership.

In short, how much longer can he last?

Mr. Macmillan realizes he is in the soup, but for the moment he chooses to ignore it. Twelve hours after the elections shocks, his office sent up a smokescreen of Mac's Magic:

A meeting with President Kennedy to discuss "a new world initiative."

The wily Prime Minister knows that every time he strolls across the international stage, his popularity rating rises. But will it work now?

"His peace role is a confidence trick as people are learning," one Tory critic told me. "His poll goes up less each time he tries it."

The loss of the "safe" South Dorset seat killed the Common Market as an election winner.

Many Tories see the South Dorset lesson as ominous because the prime minister feels his crowning achievement will be getting Britain into Europe before the next general election.

Yet the seat was lost because Sir Piers Debenham, a Conservative of high repute, stood as an anti-market candidate.

and split the party vote. He didn't win but neither did the government.

The danger is that Sir Piers has made revolt respectable. Now others will stand up to be counted. Already there are hints of chain reaction: some middle-of-the-road MPs are saying privately they are glad Dorset fell.

It is clear that Mr. Macmillan's drive into Europe is imperilled because he blundered. He made an Englishman's error of assuming that the six European members of the Common Market would fall over each other to get Britain in.

But in 17 months of haggling, the six have stuck fast to the rules of the Treaty which were tailor-made for their own needs.

The record shows that Macmillan's initial mistake led inevitably to others all culminating in last month's calamity at the polls.

The question now is: Can Macmillan reverse it?

Common Market negotiations are to drag on until next June, one year behind the original target. Allowing time for legislation, this means no general election until June, 1964.

Therefore Mr. Macmillan will have no room for manoeuvre as his office expresses the following fall.

With opinion at home clamoring for "decent terms" it is nip and tuck whether he can last that long.

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be no subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length and, if signed with a pen-name must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

As a member of the Canadian Council for Animal Welfare, and a friend of animals, I strongly protest the attitude of the Saanich council to Rev. Mother Cecelia Mary's request for a building permit to add another kennel to the buildings in use at the Good Shepherd Shelter.

Possession is nine-tenths of the law. Why should Mother Cecelia Mary with her co-workers move now in favor of hypothetical persons who may possibly wish to locate in the area "in a few years time" to quote the council...

The first work of the shelter is to care for strayed, mistreated, abandoned, unwanted and otherwise unfortunate animals. In this way they have an enviable record. Over 300 animals have come into the shelter within the last 15 months and more than two-thirds have been placed in suitable homes. The work of the shelter is also educational, through publication of The Shepherd's Crook, and through the launching of the Kindness Club the Sisters hope to awaken the general public and especially children to the needs, understanding and rights of animals.

Rather than discourage it, why not allow a good work being done by dedicated workers to grow and prosper?

(Mrs.) MAY APPLETON,

Lost Independence

N. J. McKinnon, president of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, is reported as being in favor of social security being placed on a self-sustaining basis with the recipients paying premiums. He also says the present system accounts for almost one-fifth of total government expenditures and its removal would make it possible to balance the budget and reduce taxes.

I would like to endorse this view from the standpoint of the individual worker dependent on wages alone. When I pay my premiums I qualify for benefits as of right, because I have paid for them and not as of privilege because a benevolent state has adjudged me in need.

I can never feel obliged to hang my head when I pick up my social security as someone who somehow couldn't make the grade.

No matter how innocent, no matter how hard working, no matter how good a citizen a person might be, when he picks up a cheque which is not directly related to what he has subscribed from his productive years he has to taste the insolence of charity.

When a benevolent government steals my independence I die inside.

Chisholm Target Of Right Wingers

By JURGEN HESSE

Dr. Brock Chisholm is one of many "conspirators" trying to control the human race, extreme right-wing groups in the U.S. and in Canada are reported to have claimed.

This startling disclosure comes from Dr. Chisholm himself, former director of the World Health Organization who now lives at Sooke.

"This allegation was published in several American and in one Canadian right-wing publication," Dr. Chisholm told The Daily Colonist in an interview yesterday.

CONTROL HUMAN RACE

"These people claim that U.S. psychiatrists and myself—as the only Canadian named—are trying to control the human race by means of brainwashing.

"I have been told since that cross-checks disclosed these right-wingers belong to the John Birch Society and other similar groups," Dr. Chisholm said. "They were found to be overlapping in their political affiliations."

The allegations stem from news of a large land grant given to the state of Alaska to enable it to build a mental hospital through funds acquired by sale of this land, Dr. Chisholm said.

TO CONTAIN ENEMIES

"Those people say a huge mental hospital will be built in Alaska to contain enemies of the psychiatrists' attempt to control the world."

"This is based on a small grain of truth. Before Alaska became a state it asked the U.S. federal government for money to build a mental hospital," Dr. Chisholm said.

GIVEN LAND GRANT

"Then a group of experts was sent to Alaska to investigate the need for one. In the meantime, Alaska became part of the U.S. and was given the land grant."

"Apparently this led the right-wingers to believe an enormous mental institution would be constructed on these grounds."

... 'conspirator'

These same people, he said, allege that (the late U.S. senator) McCarthy may have died of an overdose of alcohol, but only after he had been given several injections by that very group of "conspiratorial" psychiatrists.

VICTIM OF CONSPIRACY

"Of course they meant to imply by innuendo that McCarthy really was a victim of this conspiracy," Dr. Chisholm said.

"And they also say that (the late Louisiana Governor Earl) Long was treated in the same way."

One "proof" these right-wingers referred to in the case of Dr. Chisholm's participation in the conspiracy, he said, was his 1946 William Albanson White Memorial lectures held in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Chisholm had his professional training in psychiatry, and Dr. White was considered one of the outstanding psychiatrists in the U.S.

Shoplifter Assessed Fine of $50

A Saanich housewife was fined $50 in city police court yesterday for shoplifting from the T. Eaton Co. Nov. 27.

Mrs. Veronica Jessop, 389 Viaduct, had pleaded not guilty to stealing a powder compact, two vacuum bottles and a small potted palm, valued at a total of $6.94.

Two women store detectives told Magistrate William Ostler they had followed Mrs. Jessop through the store over a 20-minute period and watched her take the articles.

Pair Shaken As Car Hit

Two passengers in a parked car received a shaking up last night when they were hit by another car on Cook Street near Rockland.

Grace Wellerman, 77, and Patricia Webb, 14, both of 120 Linden Avenue, were treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for shock and bruises and later released.

Police said the driver of the car was Adolph Heglin, 1126 View Street.

Crash Victim Improving

Royal Jubilee Hospital last night reported "slight improvement" in the condition of a Victoria man who has been unconscious since a weekend car accident at Qualicum.

He is Allan G. Mitchell, 23, of 2864 Wyndevatt, who was a passenger in a sports car driven by David E. Briggs, 21, of 2645 Ansonb. The driver's condition is "fairly good."

For Orderlies

Careful Choice Vital

Selection of orderlies in mental hospitals or institutions is often not careful enough, former director of the World Health Organization, Dr. Brock Chisholm said yesterday.

"I would think they need two years of training in psychopathology to learn the techniques of getting along with people (inmates) of that kind," Dr. Chisholm said.

"Sometimes they (officials hiring orderlies) take anybody they can find."

"If an orderly tends to be irrational himself, he can become highly emotional, antagonistic or even attracted toward some patient," Dr. Chisholm said.

Orderlies deal with irresponsible people, which increases the necessity of their own responsibility, he said.

"They (the orderlies) need to be civilized."

In stark contrast to their frozen habitat is this group of Emperor penguins, photographed during a 1912 Antarctic expedition.

Polar Penguin Hates Cold

strange creatures crawl: green and orange jugulars with triangular mouths and disc-like things with five tentacles. Overhead, the wind appears to ruffle the stars and the aurorra plays in an arc of ever-changing, shuddering light. The scientist dips the fish trap to the ocean floor, fires the rocket up to 250,000 feet, grabs weird radio signals from outer space, shocks the ice cap with depth measuring waves, and picks at the mountain for signs of ancient life.

Missing Link

He is dragging the secrets from this barren place.

He knows already that a corridor exists here, almost free of the deadly cosmic rays that bombard our atmosphere; and, knowing this, may yet devise in some Antarctic laboratory a shield to protect the first man who journeys to the far stars.

He knows Antarctica is the missing link in the earth's behavior. It sucks huge quantities of heat from visiting winds and oceans and untethers them in space.

He knows this is the coldest continent because it is a desert—receiving no more than four inches of moisture annually—and it lacks a vapor mantle to keep heat to itself.

But he does not yet know whether the ice cap, which in places covers Antarctica to a depth of nearly three miles, is growing or receding. He measures it constantly. It shifts constantly.

The ice concentrates more weight at one point than anywhere else in the world. There are one to two million million tons of it. Enough, says the National Science Foundation, to warp the earth's crust.

Wandering Pole

The scientist is intrigued, too, by the wandering South Magnetic Pole. In the last eight years it has meandered 140 miles. Magnetized rocks disclose that it was off the Tonga Islands about 500,000,000 years ago.

Since it should always lie not far from the earth's axis, its wandering indicates that the earth's crust or the Antarctic continent, itself, has drifted over the surface of the globe.

All this makes Antarctica the best geophysical laboratory available to man.

Hug Radiators

One unique specimen is the penguin. Two species—the Adelle and the Emperor—winter here; and even they probably wonder why. They hate the cold.

A zoo keeper from Portland told me: "As soon as it snows, we have to boot them away from the radiators to get them outside."

In the water they run into vicious leopard seals. On land they nest on stones. And when the egg is hatched the luckless Emperor has to lug it around in a pouch on his foot and go without food for a month.

Ridiculous Gait

They eat a monotonous diet of nothing but krill, a type of shrimp. At nesting time they don't even get that. They live off their own fat and lose up to 60 per cent of their body weight.

To make matters worse, nature has given them a ridiculous gait and a voice that sounds like a rusty shovel scraping a rock. The sound seems to go with a miserable life.

But they can hit a 30-mile-an-hour clip in the water and they can walk unerringly to the nest they left the year before even though it is buried in a foot of snow.

Richard Emilen, an American scientist, has been studying their homing instinct since two banded penguins were flown 2,500 miles from their rookery and swam and waddled their way back two years ago.

"The penguin is a very inquisitive bird," he told me. "At first, we plunked them in the middle of nowhere, but they just stood around and goggled at us."

Dr. Emilen fixed that by building a collapsible miniature tent and hiding in a white pup tent beyond the penguin's range of vision. When he pulls a string the little tent falls away from the birds.

Go by Sun

They take off for home at three miles an hour. They don't run in the direction they've been brought from. They veer, instead, for open water 200 miles away.

"There isn't a thing out there to give them a reference point," Dr. Emilen said. "I think they navigate by the sun just as a pigeon does."

He once spent 26 months living among breeding penguins. He learned that when the birds come inland to nest, the male arrives first and waits for his old mate.

"He'll sit around and brood for ages before he'll take another mate. But if the old one finally turns up, he'll kick the new one out. They may look funny to you and me, but they must look good to each other."

Fast Freddie Canada Second Hurts Back

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Fast bowler Freddie Trueman, a mainstay of the touring Marylebone Cricket Club, has a congenital spine weakness, it was discovered Thursday, but is expected to play in the remaining four tests against Australia.
The doctors said Trueman's weakness "necessitates care in the amount of strain" he puts on his spine but there was no reason to believe he will not be fit to bowl in the test matches against Australia.
Lethbridge Nationals, representing Canada, wound up second with five wins and only one loss, to the undefeated Americans. Canada completed its games Tuesday night by defeating Puerto Rico 80-66. The U.S.-Philippines game ended in a near fight when Don Heller of the U.S. crashed heavily to the floor after colliding with Engracio Arayas, a 5-8 forward on the Philippine team.
Heller's teammates rushed onto the court, but officials stepped in and separated the milling players before any blows could be struck.

Machen Lashes Out Kayoes Two Guards

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Eddie Machen, mentally disturbed heavyweight fighter, knocked two hospital attendants cold and injured a third in a wild and futile attempt to break out of Napa State Hospital Wednesday night.

But the powerful Negro slugger was finally overpowered and placed under sedation, from which he did not revive until after mid-afternoon Thursday, Dr. Theo K. Miller said.

"He is in a very confused state of mind," the hospital superintendent reported. He said the slugged attendants were okay Thursday.

Still groggy and confused, Machen was visited by his wife, Charlotte, who flew from her Portland, Ore., home.

REVEN DISTURBED

She confirmed that Machen, confined by court order to the hospital Wednesday after he was found preparing to kill himself with a pistol, had been disturbed over money matters and failure to get a fight.

Mrs. Machen was accompanied by the fighter's brother, Bob, and her mother, Mrs. Edna Dotson of El Cerrito, Calif.

Although Machen was being they stayed by his bedside for some time.

"My husband's feelings are all that I am concerned about," said Mrs. Machen. "I'm thinking only of him."

The Machens have three children, aged five years, 21 months and nine months.

The fact Machen hadn't fought since July is said to have caused him to worry about money.

"He was trying very hard to get a fight with anyone," his wife explained. "Fighting was his profession and he wanted to work at it. He was worried about family finances."

She said the 190-pound fighter left Portland early this week to visit his brother at El Cerrito.

Dr. Miller said that until next Tuesday, when a report on Machen will be given in court, the fighter will be under continual observation by hospital doctors. Also, two doctors from Solano County will be sent over by Judge Phil Lynch to check his mental condition and help prepare a report on him.

The ring veteran is currently ranked by The World Boxing Association as No. 1 contender for Sonny Liston's championship.

Six Winners Enter Again

OUTDOORS with Alec Merriman

NOW! Now is the time to get out after the steelhead... and unless we get heavy rains before the weekend, conditions should be just about right.

The steelhead are in the rivers... and the rivers are clearing nicely.

Steelhead are being taken along the entire length of the Chehalis. Ed Mould and Art Hancock have connected drift fishing at the top end. On Tuesday John Stavrakoff took an eight-pounder in the middle reaches and Bill Vaux landed one by the White Bridge.

Rivers in the Quilicum area are clearing nicely, reports Murray Cree, who says a few early steelhead have been taken, with jacksprings, the odd bright coho and cutthroat trout providing plenty of sport on the Little Quilicum.

Frank Elliott reports Harris Creek and San Juan River a little high, clear, and just as he likes to see them. He got a big 14-pounder from Harris Creek this week.

The Sooke has been providing good cutthroat fishing and federal fisheries officials will lift the all-fishing ban from the mouth of DeMarnie Creek at midnight today. The ban has paid off in getting salmon to the spawning grounds. Some 600 spring salmon got up the Sooke this year, compared to 125 in the brood year, four years ago.

First steelies have come from the Quinsam River, at Campbell River, with some limits reported.

Oak Bay waters are now providing the best fishing of the year, all the way from Ten Mile Point, through The Gap between Chatham and Discovery, to Trial Island.

The winter springs are running eight to 10 pounds on the average with some big ones like Bob Partington's 25.8-pounder Sunday. Bert Higgs has landed four in past few days... a 17-pounder, a 15-pounder, a 14-pounder and a smaller one.

Best rig has been 40 feet of line, six to 12 ounces, large Strip-Tearer, with flasher on one line and no flasher on the other. A plague to fishermen has been the large number of grise, some keeper-size, which have been taking the lures.

Pedder Bay, Becher Bay and Sooke should all be worth a try, but easterly winds have kept fishermen off those waters. Not many sports fishermen have been trying it, but there has been good spring salmon fishing between Saanichton Spit and James Island.

Fog limited fishing pressure in Saanich Inlet this week, but those who have been getting out have been connecting. From Whittaker Point, to McKenzie Bay, the White Lady and Stone House has been hot area for big grise, almost blues, on the bucktail fly. Stan Williams and George Crombie limited on grise on bucktails at the White Lady. Chris Healeth, fishing from the Goldstream end also limited with six to four ounces and Tom Mack spoon.

John Lein limited on springs up to 14 pounds on Monday off Whittaker Point in the middle of the day with 300 feet of wire line and planer.

At Tod Inlet best fishing has been change of tide, which has been in middle of the day, but will be around 4 p.m. at the weekend. The springs don't appear to be as plentiful as they were, but Marie and Sid Sidaway picked up a 16 and 17-pounder and Bill Kirk got three on Wednesday. On Saturday Jim Gilbert got six while fishing with an Alberta party.

Grise fishing at Crofton has been hampered by fog.

New officer in charge of the federal fisheries Victoria sub-district is Harry V. Grainger, who comes here from Alert Bay. John Holland will stay on as his assistant.

Two big shoots are scheduled for Sunday. North Saanich Rod and Gun Club holds a big bore shoot with running deer targets, from 10 a.m. until dark at its McTavish Road grounds.

South Vancouver Island Rangers Inc. will have everything running at the same time at its Luxton grounds Sunday. Rifle, shotgun, 22, running deer, offhand rifle and 22 trap shooting and lucky targets will make a continuous show for everyone from 9 a.m. until dark. Hot dogs, sandwiches and coffee will be available.

Cam Vaesen has been elected SVIR head ranger and Roy Lawrence, assistant head ranger. Arnold Goyette is secretary, Jim Comerford treasurer, Ray Hull, Jack King and Col McAllister, auditors, and Gordon Sward, Jack King, Blythe McIlvride, Art Mourant, Col McAllister, Jim Murray, Lorne Woodley, Walter Woodley, Ray Hull and Bob Johnson, directors.

Gordon Sward will head the conservation committee, Col McAllister the social committee, George Clark the juniors, Erv Streeter the range, Dave Weir the bingo and Ted Kergin the welfare committee.

The Glants, Eastern Conference kings, meet the Western Conference champions for the NFL title here Sunday, Dec. 30.

First Place At Stake At Esquimalt

Navy and Chiefs, the top two teams in the Esquimalt Hockey League, may find out which one is better tonight—although it may not be a fair test.

The two teams have played to ties the two times they've met so far this season but Navy, having played one more game, holds a two-point lead atop the standings.

Chiefs will be minus about five players, because of injuries and players out of the city.

Chilliwack Army hockey team plays the Work Point Army club in a preliminary game at 7:45. The league game starts about 9:15.

Gold Medal Boxer Given Big Welcome

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — More than 1,200 persons jammed the Coliseum here Wednesday night to pay tribute to boxer Harold Mann.

The 23-year-old boxer won one of Canada's four gold medals at the British Empire games in Perth, Australia.

Mann and his wife, Betty, were greeted by thunderous applause when they stepped into the Coliseum prior to the start of an exhibition Cariboo League hockey game.

Mayor Garvin Dezell presented Mann with a scroll and congratulated him on his "conduct as an ambassador."

Said Mann: "I never dreamed of anything like this happening in me. I'm on top of the world tonight."

Del Shofner In Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Del Shofner, all-star end with New York Giants of the National Football League, entered hospital Wednesday for treatment of an ulcer. He is expected to miss only the Giants' final game of the regular season Sunday against Dallas Cowboys.

The Giants, Eastern Conference kings, meet the Western Conference champions for the NFL title here Sunday, Dec. 30.

The NFL title here Sunday, Dec. 30.

Tiger Fighter-of-Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Tiger, rugged middleweight champion from Nigeria, has been named the 1962 winner of the Edward J. Nell award as Fighter-of-the-Year.

The 33-year-old boxer-puncher was selected by the Boxing Writers Association to receive the Nell plaque at the association's annual dinner Jan. 13.

Tiger, a muscular 160-pounder who has won eight straight fights in the last two years, captured the World Boxing Association's middleweight crown with a decisive victory in 15 rounds over defender Gene Palmer of West Jordan, Utah, at San Francisco last Oct. 28.

Then he was hailed as champion of the world—except in the state of Massachusetts—when the New York Athletic Commission, acting with other boxing commissions, stripped Paul Pender of recognition for failure to defend his share of the title within six months. Pender is appealing the action in New York Supreme Court.

Detroit Shift Causes Ruckus

Flyers Balk at Trade

EDMONTON (CP) — The wrecking of a Detroit - engineered trade by three players with Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League has raised questions about the future of professional hockey in Edmonton.

Forward Chuck Holmes, Flyers' team captain and leading scorer; forward Warren Hynes; and defenceman Lou Maroon refused to shift to Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League, smashing a four-for-four trade arranged Thursday by Detroit Red Wings of the National League, parent club of both teams.

NO ALTERNATIVE

In a telephone interview from Detroit, Sid Abel, Red Wings general manager, said he had no alternative but to suspend the three players.

This raised a serious problem for Flyers' coach Charlie Rayner, who will be short three of his best players, has no replacements, and whose club is lagging in third place in the four-team WHL Northern Division.

"The only thing I'm concerned about," commented Rayner, "is what I'll do for hockey players in tonight's game against Vancouver Canucks."

AGREE TO REPORT

Flyer defenceman Keith (Knobby) Walsh, fourth Edmonton player involved in the trade agreed Thursday at a meeting with Rayner to go to Pittsburgh.

In return, Rayner will get Pittsburgh defenceman John Miksa, who played with Flyers last season.

The other Pittsburgh players who were to move to Edmonton are forwards Ray Ross and Norm Coccron and defenceman Jack Price.

TRYING TRADE

Abel said he will try to trade the three Edmonton players to Eddie Shore, owner of Springfield Indians of the AHL, in a three-for-one trade involving an unidentified Springfield defenceman.

Asked about rumors that Detroit was planning to drop its support for Flyers, Abel said Red Wings are disappointed with the club's showing, "but at no time has Detroit thought of pulling out of Edmonton."

COULD DROP OPTION

Red Wings have an agreement that lasts until 1966 with the Edmonton Exhibition Association, holders of the Flyers' league franchise, but could pull out at the end of this season by dropping their option.

A report in the Calgary Herald Thursday said Red Wings expect to lose approximately $100,000 on their Edmonton operation this season. The Flyers have had an average paid attendance of 1,500 at each game, by contrast, Pittsburgh games are drawing an average paid attendance of 8,000.

The Herald said Detroit will pull out of Edmonton at the end of the season.

New Yorkers Out of Touch

By JAMES DEVLIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Take away 5,500,000 newspapers a day and life just isn't the same for New Yorkers.

It isn't only a matter of trying to keep up with local, national and world news during the newspaper shutdown because of the printers' strike, which started last Saturday. It is the absence of other things for granted that leaves an unreal void.

The housewife has no newspaper advertisements to browse through in search of bargains or to compare prices as she plans her Christmas shopping.

MISS TV LISTINGS
The youngsters and adults miss television program listings and the comics.

The city's millions of commuters, without their usual papers, scrounge for any reading material available.

What's at the movies tonight? Who knows?

Was the new show on Broadway a hit or a miss? Or was there a new show?

POSTPONE OPENING
Hidden Stranger, a drama scheduled to open Dec. 29, put it off until an unspecified time in January "in hopes the newspaper strike will have ended by then."

Stockholders hardly know whether they are winning or losing without their familiar financial pages and closing prices.

READ FUNNIES
The radio and television stations have greatly expanded their news and advertising coverage, even to reading comics and presenting society items in some cases.

Stock brokerage houses issue mimeographed sheets listing prices of major stocks. Some keep an office open evenings to handle calls for information.

Some neighborhood and college newspapers have gone "big time" with expanded coverage and boosted circulations and out-of-city newspapers are selling well.

TV System Escapes Bomb Damage

TRAIL (CP) — The Trail Times says the cross-Canada television microwave system narrowly escaped disruption last spring when two bombs failed to explode at the base of one of its relay towers.

The newspaper says a tower inspector found two 45-stick dynamite bombs at the base of a tower, one of the links for relay of television, telephone, teletype, radio and radar signals.

RCMP investigators said the bombs were set to go off March 6, the same day a giant power pylon was felled by bombs on Kootenay Lake.

The Times says the microwave tower would have to move only a fraction of an inch from its base to upset the entire Canadian system.

Court Clerk in Double Role

Seamless court clerk and reporter Thomas Nisbit found himself in the unique position yesterday of giving testimony and at the same time writing it down for the official record.

The incident occurred during the preliminary attempted murder hearing of Peter Howard Dootson, charged with attacking Robert Robinson in the Colquitz mental home staff quarters.

Prosecutor Kenneth Murphy suddenly realized he would have to call the court clerk and reporter for testimony, but that no other official stenographer was immediately available.

"It's a curious position for the reporter," Magistrate William Ostler commented.

SPEAKING SLOWLY
It was finally agreed that if prosecutor, defence counsel Albi Bigelow and all concerned spoke slowly, Mr. Nisbit would take on the double job.

He gave his testimony from his desk in front of the mag- istrate, rather than from the official witness box, speaking and writing in careful phrases.

Mr. Nisbit had been a pas- senger in a car containing the accused Dootson, and three other police officers, and testi- fied in connection with the event.

The hearing will continue Dec. 26, and is expected to conclude that day with testimony from two scientific experts from Vancouver.

Parking Building Open Today

The first two floors of the civic parking building on View Street will be open to the public for the first time today.

City manager C. C. Wyatt will press a button to illuminate the building during official opening ceremonies which start at 10 a.m. Mrs. Wyatt will be in the first car to enter the building.

GUEST SPEAKERS

Mayor R. B. Wilson, parking commission chairman Ira Hill and Douglas Abbott, president of the Downtown Business Association, will speak briefly at the ceremony.

During the Christmas rush period there will be spaces for 150 cars. By late January the building will provide the full 400 car spaces on four levels above ground and the basement.

The elevator will be installed a few weeks later.

All traffic bound for the new carpark building must approach southbound on Blanshard and make a right turn onto View Street. There will be no entry to View from Douglas.

All left turns by northbound traffic on Blanshard have also been banned at View.

AT WEST END

During the remainder of the construction period, the contractor's equipment will continue to be stored on the street at the west end of the building.

This makes it impossible, for the present, to install the planned turn-around so that storage for about 30 cars lined up to enter the garage will be provided on View in the 700 block.

The temporary arrangement will provide space for only about 10 cars in a lineup. A flashing red electric sign will be turned on at the View-Blanshard intersection when the garage is full.

Cars will leave the building by a spiral ramp and come out on View Street east of the entrance.

WAYS TO GET THERE

City traffic experts offer this advice to motorists using the new facility:

Inbound traffic from Oak Bay should use Pandora and Blanshard.

Inbound traffic from Esquimalt and View Royal should use Johnson Street and turn right at Blanshard.

Traffic from the James Bay area travelling north on Douglas should turn right at Yates, or at any of the succeeding cross streets and double back on Blanshard to View.

Blue circular signs with the letter P and an arrow pointing in the direction of the new parking facility have been erected at Pandora and Yates, and Blanshard and View.

Similar signs will soon be put up to indicate the location of all parking facilities downtown with space for 100 cars or more.

SECOND BUILDING

Second of the two civic parking garages will be started in February and completed by the end of May at Yates at Langley. This one will have three split levels and a basement giving accommodation for 200 cars.

The View Street garage is by consulting engineers A. B. being constructed by Farmer Sanderson Ltd. with architect Construction Ltd. Design was done by John Di Castri.

The contractor will complete the two upper levels of the new civic parking garage on View Street while the bottom half of the building is in use. The 400-car garage is scheduled for completion late in January.

New signs pointing way to new civic parking facility were erected this week at several downtown intersections. City employee Albert Yule is shown attaching sign to post at Yates and Blanshard.

Embottled Worker Routs Holdup Trio

Saatchi detectives are conducting an intensive search for three armed and masked thugs who attempted to hold up a service station attendant at 5 a.m. yesterday.

The hooded hoodlums were put to flight when the attendant, 36-year-old A. B. (Bert) Carson, smashed one on the head with a quart bottle of oil.

Later, Mr. Carson was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital where his neck was X-rayed. No bones were broken and he was treated for a bruise and abrasions and released.

The holdup man with a sawn-off rifle, knocking his spectacles to the floor and Mr. Carson ran into the garage and grabbed the shovel.

Later, Mr. Carson was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital where his neck was X-rayed. No bones were broken and he was treated for a bruise and abrasions and released.

'Sons' Offered Family Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — The communal-living Sons of Freedom Doukhobors have been offered assisted passage to anywhere in Canada—but only if they move as family groups.

The offer was made Wednesday by Premier Bennett and outlined further by E. R. Rickenson, deputy welfare minister.

At the same time, Premier Bennett criticized television remarks by Toronto writer and broadcaster Gordon Sinclair who said British Columbia should be ashamed of its treatment of the sect.

Of the sect camped at Hope, Premier Bennett said: "We are anxious to help them re-establish themselves anywhere they wish."

He made the statement in an interview here. Later, advertisements signed by Mr. Rickenson and headed "Attention Sons of Freedom Doukhobors," appeared in newspapers.

Mr. Rickenson elaborated later in Victoria: "If the Freedomites wish to move as family groups, then we would be pleased to assist them to move to a community that would accept them as long as jobs are available to them."

"We would definitely not move them as the community that they are now."

Premier Bennett's criticism of Mr. Sinclair was the second levelled within 24 hours at the Toronto Star columnist for remarks uttered on the CBC television panel show "Front Page Challenge."

"Sinclair was completely wrong," the premier said. Earlier, Tom McRae of Rossland, B.C., chairman of the Kootenay and Boundary Committee on Doukhobor Affairs, wired the CBC demanding a full apology from Sinclair.

NO APOLOGY
The columnist was quoted later in Toronto as saying that "under no condition or any combination of conditions" would he apologize.

Rising exports of prairie crude oil to the U.S. have been part of the national Canadian oil policy established early last year to boost lagging output.

The policy was announced following talks with Washington.

There has been no quarrel about rising exports to the Pacific northwest area of the U.S. where Canadian crude merely competes with other imports.

URGENT IMPORTATION
But increased exports east of the Rockies compete with U.S. oil, and American producers have been maintaining pressure to have the Canadian oil limited.

This is believed the key point in the discussions undertaken Thursday and conducted mainly by officials.

Talks Resume Today

Canadians Hang On In Oil Policy Fight

By ARNOLD MACKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Talks between Canada and the United States about President Kennedy's new oil policy, which may affect Canadian production resumed Thursday night amid indications of considerable discussion.

They will resume today, spokesmen announced with no further elaboration.

But the fact that the talks will go on for an extra day after being extended until 6 p.m. Thursday night was taken as signifying some detailed exploration of the issues involved.

Freedomites Cool To Project

HOPE (CP)—Sons of Freedom Doukhobors showed little enthusiasm Thursday for a provincial government plan to help them settle anywhere in Canada on an individual family basis.

The plan was announced by Premier Bennett Wednesday.

Not one of a dozen or more Home questioned considered the plan with favor.

Repairs to Radio Prove Shocking

A man was knocked unconscious by an electric shock while attempting to repair his radio Wednesday night.

Police took Frank Joseph Bedry, 35, of 1527 Amelia, to St. Joseph's Hospital where he was treated for a slight electric shock and sent home.

Saanich Move

Bylaw Gives Teeth To Zoning Control

A commercial zoning bylaw which will give teeth to council's control over future commercial development will be studied by Saanich lands and planning committee Monday.

Coun. Robert Chard, chairman of the committee, said the bylaw is "sensational, in a good way. It will be a tremendous tool in the hands of people who support predictable uses of property and orderly development."

PARKING CONTROL

The comprehensive bylaw was prepared by municipal planner Tony Parr and his staff.

If approved, it will ensure such things as off-street parking, proper landscaping and elimination of haphazard development.

Guidance of the bylaw through Monday night's meeting will be one of the last acts of Coun. Chard on Saanich council, following his recent defeat in the municipal election. Following defeat of amalgamation, there will be pressure for more commercial zoning in the municipality, he predicted last night.

Only six per cent of Saanich's tax load is non-residential, and "councillors will be looking under every rose bush for excuses to bring in gas stations to relieve the home-owner's burden," Coun. Chard said.

Courteous Gesture Winds Up as Crash

What started out as a courteous gesture ended in a car and truck being heavily damaged on narrow Wallace Drive Wednesday. No one was seriously injured.

Saanich police said a car driven by Istvan Nemeth, 1221 Richardson, pulled over to make way for an oncoming truck driven by Arthur Clifford Howe, 854 Bardsey.

The car's wheel caught on the soft shoulder causing it to whip across the road into a power pole.

The truck then hit the rear of the car which was still well out in the road.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $1,900. The late model car was believed to be a total write-off.

Mormon Book Presented To Premier

A book entitled The Mormon Story has been presented to Premier W. A. C. Bennett by the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints.

Dedicated to the premier and his government "in sincere appreciation of the many and varied public services rendered us as a people" the book was presented by four missionaries of the church's Alaskan-Canadian mission.

The book gives an account of how the Mormon Church helped settle western Canada and the United States in the early days.

Victorians in Borneo

Far-Flung Teachers

By DON GAIN

A Victoria couple who have managed to combine marriage with their roving teaching careers for 12 years are home on two-months' leave from Bau in the British colony of Sarawak on the island of Borneo.

Ever since Collin and Gloria Smith, 464 Lampson, graduated from the college of education at UBC in 1950 they have taught in the same locality. Over the years they have called the following places home: Kamloops, Grand Forks, Dawson Creek and London, England.

RETURNED HOME

In 1957 they returned to Victoria. Mrs. Smith taught at Victoria High School, Mr. Smith at Mt. View High School. From 1958 to 1960 they were both at Mt. View.

They went to Sarawak as Colombo Plan teachers in October, 1960. After a year at Kanowit on the Rejang River they moved to Bau, a town 70 miles from the Indonesian border. They will return to Bau in February.

Their present assignment is the supervision of the building and running of a secondary school at Bau. They will have 130 students when the school is completed.

Mr. Smith is principal of the school, but he says their job is a joint effort. To aid in teaching, they have a Chinese teacher, an English VSO (Volunteer Service Overseas), a member of the U.S. Peace Corps and a Malay girl who teaches part-time.

SYSTEM IMPROVING

"The educational system is improving rapidly," Mr. Smith said. "When he went to Sarawak, there were only three secondary schools. Now there are nine."

"The Canadian government is doing a wonderful job," he said. "There are 37 Canadian university graduates in education in Sarawak. They are also giving scholarships to students in Sarawak to study in Canada."

LIVE IN JET AGE

"We have been impressed with the one-ness of people all over the world," Mr. Smith said. "In Sarawak our students are living in the jet age while their parents still have their feet in the stone age, yet they don't seem, basically, to be very different from the teenagers we taught at Mt. View High."

Australian Apples, Pears Coming Here

BRISBANE (Reuters)

The Australian Apple and Pear Marketing Board will open export markets next year in Canada for Australian apples. It was announced Thursday. R. W. Anderson, Queensland representative on the board, said a survey has indicated a good potential market in western Canada.

People with an eye for fine furniture... should cast their eyes on a '63 Admiral

The Bradley, C34B1X, Deluxe 22" TV

The Kenner, L53C1X, Imperial 23" TV

The Salem, L43A1X, Custom 23" TV

The Bonville, L53B1X, Imperial 23" TV

Here is fine furniture—a collection of Decorator Approved Originals in Danish, Early American, French and Italian Provincial stylings. Many Admiral cabinets are handcrafted in genuine veneers with hardwood solids.

Another pleasure awaits you — when you tune a new Admiral. You'll view the best picture in television history—brighter, clearer, more fun to watch than anything you've ever seen. Cast your eyes on Admiral TV for '63—best looking yet!

"Golden Stage" picture frame, fashioned in costly, durable metal, surrounds and supports the picture tube. An Admiral exclusive, it greatly enhances the appearance of the set.

New TV control centre with "Digital" tuning is another Admiral first. Turn the channel selector and large, evenly lit, soft-green numbers flash across the panel. More reliable, too... no pilot lights to burn out!

Admiral-pioneered Compactron tube solidly "locks-in" the picture to your screen. And, because it's stronger and more dependable than other tubes, you save on service calls.

Safety Glass and built-in tinted optic filter are sealed directly on the aluminized picture tube face plate. There's no bother—some glass to remove and clean, no dust behind the glass anywhere... no danger of tube breakage!

Free Bus Aids 'Relations'

DUNCAN — Improvement in labor-management relations was seen in the Hillcrest Lumber Co. decision to reinstate one bus by IWA local 1-80 president Percy Clements.

After a temporary settlement (in the long-standing bus dispute) was found in mid-June the company re-established one bus from Duncan to the logging camp which will be continued, Hillcrest director Peter Stone said.

If the same offer had been made a year ago the dispute perhaps never would have happened, said Mr. Clements.

"As a result of the union's complete refusal on behalf of some 70 loggers involved to adopt the recommendation from the labor department appointee heading a settlement committee, we are compelled to continue operation of one logging bus, for the present time, from Duncan to Mesachie Lake," said Mr. Stone.

The further withdrawal of the free bus service would result in another work stoppage, he added.

KVOS Ruling Delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada reserved judgment Thursday in an appeal case in which the Composers, Authors and Publishers Association of Canada Limited seeks damages of $250,000 from a Bellingham, Wash., television station for infringement of musical works copyrighted by CAPAC.

The case involves an action by CAPAC against KVOS Inc., which operates a television and radio station at Bellingham, and KVOS (Canada) Limited of Vancouver, its Canadian subsidiary. KVOS Inc. now is known as International Good Music Inc. and KVOS (Canada) Limited as Rogers Properties Limited.

CAPAC, an organization which collects royalties for its members, started the case early in 1959.

CAPAC says that the Bellingham station has used musical works produced in Canada by its subsidiary in broadcasts beamed to Canada. It says it holds performing rights but states that the station has no CAPAC licence to perform the works and has not paid royalties on them.

The two companies deny that there has been an infringement of musical works copyrighted by CAPAC.

Greater Victoria Leaders Pleased by Centre Victory

By JACK FRY

Civic leaders throughout Greater Victoria were happy to congratulate city taxpayers last night for approving Victoria's centennial square project.

"This is wonderful news. It's certainly going to be the greatest thing for Victoria within the past decade, if not longer," said John Wallace, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

LONG-NEEDED

"It will help focus attention on the downtown area of the city and lead to further development. It will give a boost to the city, which was long-needed," he said.

Planning-minded Anthony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, said "this part of town needed an uplift, and I think it will give it that."

VOTERS' WISH

"I hope this will be the first of a number of steps improving the downtown area and some of the poorer residential areas of the city. It shows that the people of Victoria want to keep their city up to date," he said.

Owen Karm, president of the Silver Threads Service — a Community Chest agency which concerns itself with the needs of some 25,000 senior citizens in Greater Victoria — said "this undoubtedly will result in a senior citizens' centre being constructed there."

FILL GAP

"There is a need for a centrally located place which is easily accessible to older people. We hope this will help fill the gap not being filled by existing senior citizen organizations."

Reeve Stanley Murphy of Saanich said, "I am delighted with the confidence and courage taxpayers are showing in the city of Victoria. The project is a tribute to city council and its planning department."

LIVEN CENTRE

Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay said, "It will mean a great deal to the city. It will live up the whole city centre. It is long overdue, to have some project like that in the run-down centre of the city."

Reeve A. C. Wurtel of Esquimalt said, "We would like to see a nicely developed area by city hall — this is the centre of Greater Victoria. The reeves and councillors of Greater Victoria had a look at the plan earlier, my council thought it was a very good project, beautifully got up by Rod Clark."

Britain Offered

Polaris Missiles For Skybolts

LONDON (AP) — The London Daily Mail says Britain has accepted a U.S. plan to junk the Skybolt rocket program and agreed to take in its stead Polaris missiles to arm a new fleet of British-built nuclear submarines.

OWN WARHEADS

In a dispatch from a correspondent reporting on the meeting of NATO ministers in Paris, The Daily Mail says it is understood President Kennedy told Prime Minister Macmillan the Polaris missiles, designed to carry nuclear warheads, would be offered "without strings." Britain can produce its own nuclear warheads.

The Mail says the plan would call for a crash program of building nuclear submarines in British naval yards. These submarines, it reports, would be smaller than the Polaris-equipped U.S. vessels, and have a shorter range. Each would be armed with eight Polaris rockets.

The newspaper estimates the submarine program would add at least $250,000,000 ($750,000,000) to Britain's annual defence budget.

Saskatoon Plan

Short Vacations Urged in Schools

REGINA (CP) — O. A. Turnbull, Saskatchewan education minister, said Thursday a proposal for year-round attendance and shorter vacations in Saskatchewan high schools is "interesting and worthy of consideration."

Vern Dalkin, chairman of the Saskatoon collegiate board, has proposed that students in Grades 9, 10, 11 and 12 go to school for half a day through the whole year to double the use now being made of Saskatoon high schools.

His proposal also called for shorter summer, Christmas and Easter holidays.

Education department and collegiate board officials were to discuss the proposal in Regina today.

Mr. Turnbull said he has been expecting a proposal such as Mr. Dalkin's "for some time."

It is evidence that pressures for increased school facilities across Canada will result in proposals to relieve that pressure and its accompanying strain on property taxes, he said.

Mr. Turnbull said his department has been considering a somewhat different method of relieving property tax pressures to meet educational demands.

Tshombe Offers To Share

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — President Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga province notified UN Secretary-General U Thant Thursday that if certain conditions are met, he will share with the control Congolese government the rich foreign currency earnings of Katanga mines.

Thant indicated he was wary of the offer.

U.S. Official Here Thursday

'No Spring Election'

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, scotching a spate of rumors in Ottawa, said Thursday night the government has "no thought of any election."

He dismissed out of hand suggestions that the government might dissolve Parliament early next month and call a spring election.

The government intends to carry on its program, including economic and fiscal measures now before Parliament or to be presented to it.

Harbor Lighting

Festive Rig For Navy

Esquimalt Harbor will be transformed into a Christmas wonderland when navy ships and establishments of the Pacific Command light up for the festive season.

From Dec. 20 to Jan. 4, RCN ships in harbor will blossom out with Christmas trees at their masts. Some will have more elaborate lighting and novelty effects.

Last year, several destroyer-escorts pointed their mortar barrels skyward and decorated them as huge candles. Illuminated crosses shone from the masts of frigates.

Christmas decorations in the ships of the fleet will reflect a thought included in Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore's Christmas message—"to help preserve the uneasy peace, to make a lasting and real."

A beer keg was recovered in an unlikely location yesterday.

Police found the soda barrel in the middle of Beacon Hill Park.

It was returned to the brewery.

Open-Shelf Library 'Of Little Use' To Most Readers

The Open Shelf Library in the legislative buildings—a free service to residents of unorganized territory—open such a short period each day that it is of little use to most students and working persons, a Parent-Teacher council spokesman said yesterday.

Mrs. Alice Hardisty, secretary of the Sooke school district council, said "pressure from residents of our school district not satisfied with the services offered by the Open Shelf Library, led our council to investigate the possibility of obtaining improved library facilities."

NO REFLECTION

"This was no reflection on the Open Shelf Library, which operates very efficiently within its limits," she said.

"Our aim is to provide the children and adults of our district with the pleasure and privilege of local library service at the least possible cost," Mrs. Hardisty said.

"We hope to obtain for all residents the opportunity to handle and choose their reading material personally and to have a variety of reference books available at convenient times."

The hours of the Open Shelf Library preclude this to most students and employed adults," she said.

A spokesman for the Open Shelf Library, said earlier that if Sooke school district ratepayers vote in favor of using the services of the Vancouver Island Regional Library in Nanaimo, they will lose the free service.

The Open Shelf is open from 2 to 4 p.m. daily for users who want to come in and pick up their books. But rural residents can also write in and receive the books through the mail.

REGULAR VISITS If Sooke school district ratepayers vote for the regional library in a forthcoming referendum, they would get regular visits throughout the area by a bookmobile from Nanaimo.

It was estimated the bookmobile service would cost ratepayers one-half mill more on their tax notices.

Tricks with Tissue, Tape

By CAROL WEST

The most painful part of giving Christmas presents may come when you have to watch people opening them.

For while they casually tear your "artistic creation" apart, you will find yourself wondering whether the hours of wrestling with wrapping, taping with tape and battling those bows, were not wasted.

Have you ever wondered why you bother with this wrapping ritual each year? Is that ritual with tissue and tinsel really necessary? Why not just seal that box with scotch tape, add a label and call it a day?

With some people, it's merely a question of convention. They wrap presents because tradition tells them they must.

Many, however, get genuine pleasure from indulging their artistry and imagination in gilding their gifts with holly and sparkle-dust. It is the one time of year when every Peter or Patsy can pretend they are a Picasso.

DIFFICULT SHAPES

But not all presents come in conveniently shaped easy-to-wrap boxes, and the more difficult shapes can be a frustration to the wrapper. But let your imagination run wild and chances are you'll come up with a unique wrapping design that will delight even your most discriminating friend.

Here are some tips on how to deal with three difficult shapes.

Ever try to wrap a long narrow box, such as would contain a pen, pencil or cigarette holder? The easy way out is to make a "cracker" by wrapping the box in five or six layers of tissue paper, leaving about three inches of the paper protruding at each end. A thread is next tightly tied around the ends of the box and the three inches of paper on each end are shredded or frilled.

But if you want something a little different, try this trick—make a doll out that tell-tale box. Here's how to do it:

Wrap the box in a basic paper of pink or beige, leaving enough paper extending at one end to shroud in the same manner as with the cracker.

This becomes the hair, which can be tied in a pony tail or left loose around the face. The doll's face can either be drawn on the box, or a picture from a magazine can be posted on.

The arms are made from two pipe cleaners, placed parallel and twisted around each other. Ribbon is then wound around the pipe cleaners to form sleeves of a dress.

Bend the ribboned arms in half and attach it where the bend comes to the back of the box, just below the face. Arms can then be bent into any position desired.

The bodice of the dress is simply a piece of the same ribbon as used on the sleeves wound around the box just below the arms and stuck in position.

The skirt can be made from a matching or contrasting colored paper and is folded into a cone shape around the waist of the doll. A hole is cut at the apex of the cone to allow for the box.

MAKE A SANTA

Another difficult shape to wrap is a cylinder such as you might find with a tin of tobacco or a box of talcum powder. It's easy to make a Santa out of this shape.

You need two cones of paper, one pink and one red, the red about four inches shorter than the pink one and the mouth of the cone of the pink must be large enough to just fit over the top of the can or box.

The red cone is slipped over the pink one and glued in position. A small hole is cut in the top of the red cone and a fluff of cotton batting is stuck into the hole to resemble the tassel on Santa's hat.

Cotton batting is also used to make Santa's mustache, eyebrows and beard, as shown in the diagram.

The round eyes and nose can either be painted on or small circles of colored paper can be pasted on.

The tin or box can be covered with any red opaque paper. The Santa head and hat is then slipped over the top of the tin and secured in place with scotch tape.

If you are planning to give a friend a phonograph record this year, let them graduate into the world of fine music wearing their own golden mortarboard.

Here's how to make one. Wrap the record and its cover in gold wrapping paper. This will form the top of the graduation cap. For the crown, take a piece of stiff cardboard about 24 inches long by five inches deep and cover one side with gold paper. Then cut one inch slats at intervals of about two inches along one of the sides.

Bend the card to form a circle, overlapping it about an inch and gluing it in place. Now bend the slats inward to the centre of the circle; apply glue to the upper side of these slats and stick them to the centre of the wrapped record.

Make a tassel from several two-inch strips of gold colored wrapping ribbon, shredded at one end and tied together at the other. Attach it with another length of gold ribbon to the upper side of the mortarboard, allowing it to hang over the edge.

Holiday Decorations Good Gifts

Have you done your Christmas shopping? All of it?

Chances are you haven't. You may have done part of it, but I'll bet there are lots of loose ends to be tied up.

Various types of holiday decorations are always welcome gifts, especially for those who might not go out to buy decorations just for themselves.

Brighten up their Christmas dinner table (or your own) with a lavish looking table centre, which has a single candle flanked with holly, poinsettias and colored bobbles. Priced from $2.50 up, they'll do justice to any dinner table, big or small.

Door swags of silver and gold leaves, or pine branches, are also from $2.50 and afford a real holiday greeting to Christmas visitors. Or you can hang a large silver or gold bell ($1 each) in the doorway or hall.

If you're ambitious and want to make your own decorations, this store supplies a lot of the materials you'll need. An inexpensive and entertaining centrepiece can be made by placing a set of five animals—rabbits, cats, mice, poodles—all in different sizes, on styrofoam, then adding your own tree decorations or even tree branches. Set of animals is $1.50.

Incidentally, instead of cluttering up your mantelpiece with cards why not make a Christmas scene? Spread out cotton wool makes dandy snow, and you could add the above animals, glitter birds made from acorns at 25c each (excellent for the tree, too) and holly, pine or cedar branches—selling in generous bunches for only 49c.

If you have a mirror behind the mantel spray on some artificial snow (98c a bottle) and add baby candles to the scene for a double-glow effect.

A most daring set of four candles I saw are in the shape of miniature liquor bottles (this advertisement is not published or displayed by the Liquor Control Board or by the Government of B.C.)—complete with authentic brand labels. Set of four is only 98c.

Tired of trying to remove cranberry sauce stains from good table cloths? One solution is a colorful paper tablecloth (large size) for 49c. Decorative napkins go with it—large double tissue ones are 20 for 49c, while smaller ones are 20 for 29c.

Also to enhance the table—or give as a gift—are graceful wooden candle holders with brass plates for $1.49 a pair. Candles, too, look lovely with a sprinkle of that glittery stuff on them. This store sells the sparkles in old pill bottles—easy to shake out—for 20c.

And, to top off any delicious meal, Brown and Haley almond rock is here in gift-wrapped cans of 7 oz. and 14 oz. for $1.10 and $2.25 respectively.

A real treat to put on top of the tree for the old boy to smoke Christmas evening is a one-dollar Royal Jamaican cigar—just about the best money can buy.

Cuban cigars (not available in the States) are selling for 75c each, and if you have an inkling to try one of the baby cigars—they are selling at 50c for 10.

Word from the produce people is that Jumbo Florida grapefruit are due on the market—at about 25c each; also Florida tangerines are coming soon to supplement the shortage of Jap oranges.

Roasting chestnuts from Italy are due here—to retail at about 70c a pound—and apparently they make a delicious stuffing.

If you're still short of gift ideas and are planning to decorate your house this Christmas, call EV 3-4111 for the names of stores where you may buy the items. Again, all will remain open until 9 p.m.

Last week I faced a problem... one that many of you will face in the busy weeks ahead... what to wear when attending a reception direct from work. I had a brain-storm and wore a basic green wool dress and carried my aurora jewelry in my hand bag. Quick change of jewelry and I was on my way.

We still have a wide selection of the ever-versatile basic Dresses in soft wools and knits in sizes 9 to 18. From $19.95. Come in and choose yours.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to you all!

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from Debbie and was stunned because I had a similar experience 30 years ago.

We had a large, grey tomcat named Sir Gregory. He hated my friend, Horace. Sir Gregory's hair stood on end whenever Horace came to see me. He hid under the buffet when Horace was in the house. When Horace walked past the buffet Sir Gregory lashed out and scratched his highly polished leather shoes. Once Sir Gregory put his claws clean through Horace's socks.

I married Horace and it was the biggest mistake of my life. He turned out to be selfish and unfaithful. The kindness he showered on me during courtship was an act. I wish I had known then that animals have instincts about people who are putting on a false front.

I hope and pray that Debbie drops her boy friend and finds a young man her sireade can warm up to. —SMART TOO LATE.

Dear Smart: The divorce rate in this country is at a point where perhaps mate selection ought to be left to the family pets. They couldn't do much worse than people.

Dear Ann Landers: I thought my husband and I had a good marriage until three weeks ago. A young woman showed up at my front door and introduced herself as my husband's "secret, unmarried wife." I almost fainted.

This woman is 26, neat, attractive and soft-spoken. She said she hated to come to my home and put it off as long as she could. Now she is in dire need and must have financial help to raise her two-year-old child which is my husband's.

The story sounded so fantastic I refused to believe it. When she showed me pictures of the child there were no doubts in my mind. She looked like a twin to our own little girl.

My husband came off the road the next day and I told him about my visitor. At first he denied everything, but when he found out it was useless to fool me, he confessed. Does my husband have an obligation to this child? I still love him but how can I trust him after this? Please help me. —QUICKSAND.

Dear Quicksand: Your husband is morally and legally obligated to support his child.

Give him the break he doesn't deserve and stand by him. He may be a better husband after you demonstrate faith and confidence. If you can carry this off with dignity and courage, you are a real heroine—and your reward may well be a real husband.

Yukon Water Contaminated

WHITEHORSE (CP)—Health authorities said Tuesday the water supply of the Sleepy Hollow sector of Whitehorse will be contaminated.

The low-lying part of the city was flooded to about two feet by an overflow of slush from the ice-jammed Yukon River. The ice flood is contaminated because the river blockage is downstream from the city's sewage outlets.

Fund to Help Elsa's Kin

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—A lioness named Elsa brought fame to Joy Adamson. Now, Mrs. Adamson, who wrote of the family pet, hopes that earnings because of that fame will help preserve Elsa's cousins and other animals of the African jungles and bush country.

"In three years, at the rate things are going, there won't be any lion population," she said. "Poaching, land developments without moving the animal population to new country, a shortage of male lions... all are taking their toll."

"Yet jungle creatures have a right to live... must live, if we are to keep the balance of nature."

Mrs. Adamson is on a lecture tour of England, Scotland, the Scandinavian countries and a limited series of appearances in the United States to talk about Elsa and the animal and plant life in Kenya.

Her husband, George, for nearly 30 years was game warden in the preserve along Kenya's northern frontier. Now, he has retired to help promote large-scale projects to protect Africa's wild life.

IN DANGER

Elsa was a cub with her eyes still closed when she came to the Adamsons. Mrs. Adamson recalled that her husband in self-defence shot the mother—when—she charged. Later, when he found three cubs (the two others eventually went to zoos), he knew why the lioness had charged... she thought her infants were in danger.

Elsa became a pet—"More than that," said Mrs. Adamson.

In an interview, "She was a member of the family. She shared in everything with us. She also became the heroine of a best-selling book called 'Born Free.' In it, Mrs. Adamson chronicled in words and pictures Elsa's growing up and Elsa's mating."

Elsa produced three cubs—Jesph, Gopa and Little Elsa—who have been moved to Serengeti National Park in Tanganyika. The Adamsons hoped that there, in a preserve, Elsa's progeny would be safe, but are not sure—they haven't seen the cubs in more than a year although they often are on safari hoping to sight them.

Elsa died not too long after the book about her was published. Mrs. Adamson said a post-mortem showed she was a victim of a tick-borne parasite which destroyed red corpuscles. "So animal scientists discovered another enemy of the lion population," she said.

CUB'S STORY

The story of the cubs' early months was told in a sequel called "Living Free," and now in more detail, a third book soon is to be published called "Forever Free."

"We didn't want to make the cubs part of the family," said Mrs. Adamson. "We wanted them wild, as they should be. This always caused a conflict with Elsa. She was caught being part of our family and seeing us then trying not to adopt her children. But the cubs themselves established a 'buffer zone.' No matter how Elsa tried to encourage them, they kept their three feet distance."

Mrs. Adamson said that all money—"Elsa's Fund," she called it—from the books, television, movie rights and the lecture tours is going into conservation of animals in the Kenya colony.

"Kenya now has three preserves," she said, "with about 50 per cent of the species of the colony represented. There just isn't living space for the other 50 per cent."

Mrs. Adamson, 52, is a tall, slim, dark blonde woman with bright blue eyes. She also is an artist whose paintings are in Nairobi museums.

She has written eight books on Africa's flora. A rapid conversationalist, she said her writing is produced "in a study hardly typical of most authors." All writing has been done on safari, with the typewriter parked on a trunk.

Party Behavior

From now until January one, it's party time right across the country.

How to behave at a cocktail party. Here's some advice: If you are the host, basic requirements are three times as many people as the room will hold. A full glass insures your freedom and if you can't find a sufficient ice and enough to drink—easily got at.

If you are a guest, do not arrive on time. If you do you'll either be sent out for more ice while the hostesses discuss or be trapped in a chair while she finishes vacuuming. All that is required of you is the ability to hold, simultaneously, a cigarette, a napkin, a cocktail, a clam muck and an opinion on Mr. Diefenbaker selling wheat to China or Mr. Kennedy and Cuba. Accept the first drink offered even if you've sworn off for life. Otherwise you're an outsize target for every passing soul. A full glass insures your freedom and if you can't find a sufficient ice and enough to drink—easily got at.

Avoid any conversation that requires development. Instead, discuss music you have read about but never listened to. Or, character assassination is always acceptable and let the potato chips fall where they may.

Cookies are a wonderful tradition.

Baking the Modern Way

Time before The Big Day getting away from you? Gifts to buy, bows to tie, and nary a Christmas cookie baked yet?

Be of good cheer. There's a speedy way to make those gay Santas and pretty stars and luscious bars. Start with already measured, mixed and rolled refrigerated cookie dough from your grocer's dairy case. The rest is all fun and all easy; requires only a knife, the slicing and arranging directions below, plus your favorite decorating tricks.

Give yourself as little time as two hours in the kitchen and you can turn out an array of traditional cookie shapes for giving, for serving, and for ornamenting—perhaps the tree itself, or your prettiest trays and plates.

There's a nice bonus, too: you'll not only have pretty cookies and tasty cookies, but a minimum of time stealing clean-up—really a modern way to bake.

FANCY CHRISTMAS COOKIES

General Directions: Slice 1 roll Slice 'n Bake Buttercream Nut, Peanut Butter or Sugar Cookies ¼-inch thick. Arrange in desired shapes on ungreased cookie sheet (see directions below). Bake at 375° for 7 to 10 minutes. Cool 1 minute, loosen with spatula and cool completely on cookie sheet.

Angels: For each, cut a narrow strip from two sides of cookie slice, leaving a triangular piece for "body." Place cut pieces at sides for wings. Make a ball from ¼ of another slice; place at top of triangle for head. Arrange small cake decorations for eyes. Bake and cool. Sprinkle with powdered sugar or decorate with white icing. Makes about 24.

White Icing: Combine 1 cup sifted powdered sugar and 2 to 3 teaspoons milk. Stir until smooth.

Poinsettias: For each, arrange 5 half-slices with points together, straight edges facing the same direction. Bake and cool. Outline edge of cookies with red icing and place a yellow gumdrop piece in the centre. Makes about 20.

Red Icing: Combine 1 cup sifted powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon red food coloring, 3 to 4 drops yellow food coloring and 2 to 3 teaspoons milk. Stir until smooth.

Candy Canes: Roll slices into pencil-like strips 4 inches long. Shape into canes. Bake and cool. Frost baked Candy Canes with white icing. Make stripes with red icing (see recipes above). Makes about 60.

PEPPERMINT CANDY SQUARES

Slice 1 roll refrigerated Slice 'n Bake Cookies as directed on label. Press pieces into ungreased 13 x 9-inch pan.

Bake at 375° for 15 to 20 minutes, until golden brown. Immediately sprinkle with ¼ cup crushed peppermint candy. (Candy melts onto the hot cookie.) Cool completely and cut into bars. Makes 3 dozen.

FUDGE MINT MALLOW BARS

Slice and quarter refrigerated Slice 'n Bake Fudge Mint Cookies as directed on label. Press the quarters together to make two 7-inch squares on ungreased cookie sheet.

Bake at 375° for 8 to 10 minutes. Cool 2 minutes, gently loosen then allow to cool completely on cookie sheet.

Spread one square generously with marshmallow creme, top with second square. Cut into bars. Makes about 2½ dozen.

Donations To Retarded

At the recent Christmas meeting of the Florence Nightingale Chapter IODE, held in the home of Mrs. L. M. Roskelley, fruit juices, soups, jelly powders and cake mixes were donated to the retarded children.

Mrs. Roskelley, educational secretary, reported books valued at $11.55 were sent to Salama Island school. Miss Marjorie Hurst, services at home and abroad, reported knitted woolen socks and layettes were sent to Korean children. Regent, Mrs. G. C. Baker, was in the chair.

PARTY SNACK

One of the simplest and tastiest party appetizers is made like this. Spread toast fingers with softened butter and top each with a thin slice of smoked salmon (lox), trimmed to size. Garnish with lemon, thinly sliced and cut in tiny wedges.

Racers Elect Woman

By WALTER HAYES

HALIFAX (CP) — With the rapid rise in popularity of sports cars and sports car clubs in Canada in the last 10 years, it's not uncommon to see women piloting the racy little machines.

However, when Mrs. Isabel Plaunt bought her first car, an MGA, in the fall of 1958, it was still rare to see a female behind the wheel of one in this area.

Isabel says she felt a bit conspicuous at the first meeting of the Atlantic Sports Car Club of Halifax that she attended.

"There was only a handful of people here and only one other woman."

Today the acceptance of woman in this field is evident by the fact that Mrs. Plaunt, an energetic 26-year-old beauty, has been elected president of the 80-member organization.

She still remembers her first competition. It was a few months after she joined the club and it followed a heavy snowstorm. Navigating while she drove was Ben Fullerton, now past-president of the club, who had introduced her to the organization.

"I had learned to drive only a few months before and we were on back country roads so covered with snow that we could easily have become stuck. Ben told me to drive as hard as I could, so I did."

They finished third.

Isabel said that only two months before she had been so scared to drive on snow that if there was even a trace she would leave her car at home and walk to work.

In the spring of 1959 she turned out for another event, a driving skill contest. She wasn't planning to enter because she didn't think she could drive well enough, but after much coaxing took to the road against 13 men.

She was plagued with troubles from one end of the twisting course to the other. "I couldn't get the shift into reverse and when I did I couldn't get it out again." Despite her troubles she placed eighth.

For the middle-aged lady who wants comfort with style during the festive season . . . the answer is . . .

Oak Bay Considers Own Library

Oak Bay might set up its own independent library in the future if it finds it's paying too much to support the Victoria Public Library, an Oak Bay councillor said this week.

And Coun. John Watts said

this could happen if the Victoria library increased its services, as recommended in a recent report by Miss Rose Vainstein of the University of B.C. library school, without following another recommendation that the basis of apportioning costs among municipalities be changed.

He was speaking at a meeting Monday of the Oak Bay zoning, planning and development committee.

Miss Vainstein, in a recent report, recommended establishment of a branch library in Esquimalt and a bookmobile in Oak Bay.

She also recommended that the Greater Victoria municipalities contribute to the library according to their relative populations, not, as at present, according to relative book usage.

It could be, Coun. Watts said, that if contributions continue on a usage basis, but a bookmobile is sent to Oak Bay, "usage will rise so much that it would be cheaper to have our own library."

Oak Bay has a high usage-to-population ratio compared to other municipalities. Therefore, Oak Bay's contribution would rise only a moderate amount under recommendations of Miss Vainstein's report.

Committee member Fred Norris said he felt the usage basis is more fair than population thought the difference might be much less.

Both Coun. Watts and Mrs. Norris said they were dubious of Miss Vainstein's estimates that her proposals would cost a municipality such as Oak Bay some $30,000 in the first year while first-year costs of a branch library would be $50,000. They

Uncertainty Bad For U.K. Firms

BRUSSELS (AP) — The painful progress of Britain's slow-motion courtship of Europe will probably dominate 1963 far beyond the six Common Market nations.

Wherever businessmen meet in Britain or on the continent, the Brussels negotiations are a main talking-point. Will they succeed and when? If they fail, what next? Much else depends on their success. The entry of Denmark and Norway, for instance, the possible association of so-called neutrals — Sweden, Switzerland and Austria — maybe the later coming in of such nations as Israel and Spain.

But Britain is the first big pill the Six must absorb if their present market of 170,000,000 is to expand to rival the major trading blocs of East and West. Some, mainly the French, seem to be having trouble in getting it down.

Meanwhile the uncertainty is bad for business — in Britain. The Six — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and little Luxembourg — go their booming way.

It is true their balance of trade deteriorated further in the summer. Exports to non-member countries dropped a little. Imports continued to grow. But their experts say there is nothing to worry about. The economy is healthy and expanding, if at a slower rate.

GROWTH FORECAST

An average growth of 4.8 per cent is still forecast for the Six in the 1960-1970 decade. Increases in their gross national products are expected to give an average community increase of 59.1 per cent during the same period.

A report prepared in Brussels by French economist Pierre Uri and a group of five other experts says the population of the Common Market area should reach 175,000,000 by 1965. Employment should rise by seven per cent and the 40-hour week is expected to spread progressively in all the member countries.

It all looks healthy enough. What do the individual club members say?

France is preoccupied about her farm produce. She has roughly half the arable land in the market as it now stands and her farmers have boosted production to the point where they have healthy surpluses to export. That's why they want to nail down a close-at-hand market within the community.

which would have built - in advantages over any Canadian or Australian growers.

West Germany's traditional trading partners have been the other five who form the Common Market. Its two-way trade with them showed a 10-per-cent jump in the first half of 1962. The gradual lowering of tariffs — now 50 per cent below the 1957 level on manufactured goods — has brought more imported items into German shops. But there have been a few spectacular price drops.

ITALY BOOMING

Italy has probably never had it so good, despite a continuing unemployment problem in the south. Her exports to her Common Market partners leaped 25 per cent in 1962, while her imports from them rose 20 per cent. This rate of increase may drop next year, but the general air in Rome is one of optimism. Half of Belgium's exports go to other Common Market countries, although exports to outsiders fell off slightly in the face of keener competition and tariff barriers. However, the outlook is good, order books are well filled and production is slowly rising.

Industrial production in Holland went up 30 per cent, while the national product rose 19 per cent. Market membership has resulted in a slight increase in food prices, which were formerly lowest among the Six. Wages have been raised to wards those prevailing in other member nations.

Final figures for 1962 community trade are not yet available, but the trend is everywhere good.

Tots' Shoes Queried

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada leads the western world in producing the worst conglomeration of children's shoe styles and shapes, says Roy Arnold, 49-year-old father of six, consulting engineer and operator of a children's shoe store in suburban North Vancouver.

He says the pointed toe that has been gaining popularity in children's shoe styles in recent years slowly but surely causes crippling deformities in young feet.

He says he got the British Columbia division of the Canadian Medical Society to agree with his belief there should be minimum design standards that would eliminate inferior and dangerous children's shoes in future.

"Because they have no standards to work to, the manufacturers just turn out exactly what they feel caters to consumer demand. They know that children like to copy their parents so they build children's shoes the same way they build adult's shoes. But the difference is that children's feet are growing and are easily deformed by bad-fitting shoes."

The medical body passed a resolution calling for a minimum standard of design of lasts for children's shoes, controls of advertising claims of "correctness" in shoe design, and a form of certification for shoe salesmen in children's departments to ensure proper fitting.

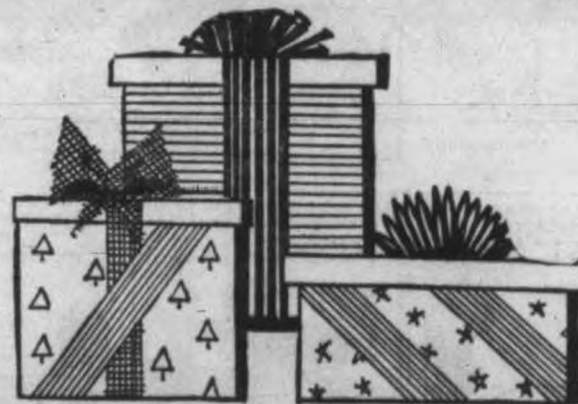

Mr. Arnold has written to the federal health department about his views on pointed shoes.

Garden Notes

Facts and Fiction

By M. V. CHENUT, FRHS

In selecting a garden book as a Christmas gift for some green-thumbed friend or relative, it is necessary to make some distinction between the how-to-do-it manuals and what might be called gardeners' bedside books—volumes to be dipped into for sheer refreshment and relaxation.

Of the latter, I think I have had greatest enjoyment from a series of thin books of whimsical verse by Reginald Arkell. There are four books in the series, called Green Fingers, Green Fingers Again, More Green Fingers, and And a Green Thumb and they contain the screwiest, wackiest bits of verse that ever tickled a gardener's funnybone—verses such as "Don't Laugh at the Lupins... They're Doing Their Best" and a hilarious bit that starts "I knew a girl who was so pure, she couldn't say the word Manure." The little books cost five shillings each—probably about a dollar in this country—and are published by Herbert Jenkins Ltd., London.

Another book by Reginald Arkell which I have read at least four times is "Old Herbaceous," a most entertaining novel based on the life of an old-time professional head gardener on a big English country estate. It is a delightful thing, and I bless the day

I saw it on the counter of a local bookstore and bought it for 75 cents.

Two very good bedside books come from the pen of John T. Tobe, a seedsman and nurseryman of St. Catherine's, Ont. One is called Growing Flowers and the other, Romance in the Garden, priced at $5 each and published by George J. McLeod, Toronto. These are not how-to-do-it books at all, but the kind of thing you like to dip into before going to sleep, filled with folklore, fables and ancient beliefs concerning plants, humorous anecdotes, plant hunting adventures and the like.

Works of fiction with a gardening flavor seem to be few and far between, but one which occupies pride of place in my bookshelf is Blenheim Orange by H. W. Freeman. The characters in it are all close to the soil, and while it is pure fiction with a most entertaining story, I learned more about how to prune black currants and when to harvest walnuts from this book than from any gardening manual. It is not a recent book—it was published in 1949 by Victor Gollancz, London—and for this reason you may have some trouble locating a copy.

Another novel which has given me great pleasure is Corn in Egypt by the late Warwick Deeping. This is closer to farming than to gardening, but a deep and abiding love of the land is radiated from every page—it is the story of a young accountant who abandons a promising business career in London to buy and rehabilitate a broken-down small farm in Surrey. This one, too, may be out of print, for the last of its four printings was in 1949.

In my small library I have two picture books which I believe would make most welcome Christmas gifts for a keen gardener. One is Flowers of the World in Full Color by Robert S. Lemmon and Charles L. Sherman, with exquisite color photographs of more than 600 flowers, both common and exotic. It is published by Hanover House, Garden City, N.Y. although my copy came through the American Garden Guild Book Club, Toronto.

The other is The Encyclopedia of Plant Portraits by A. G. L. Hellyer, published by Collingridge, London, and obtained through the British Book Service, Toronto. While the photographs in this case are in black and white, it is wider in scope than "Flowers of the World," containing better than 1,100 plant portraits, and easier to use by reason of its alphabetical arrangement. The book sells for $4.25, but I'm afraid I can't remember what I paid for my copy of Flowers of the World.

ART BUCHWALD on the Stevenson Rhubarb

Better Be Safe Than Sorry

WASHINGTON—The recent rhubarb concerning what position Ambassador Adlai Stevenson did or did not take during the Cuban situation, as reported by the Saturday Evening Post, has been very embarrassing to the Kennedy administration.

It has also caused a great deal of soul-searching by people high in government circles. If the give and take of a top-secret National Security Council conference is leaked to the press, many may hesitate to speak out in fear of being accused of being soft on Communism.

We hate to think of what the next National Security Council meeting will be like.

The president opens up the meeting. "Gentlemen, this morning I would like to discuss with you the Congo and what we should do about the situation there. Let's hear your thoughts on it."

There is complete silence.

"Aw, come on, fellows, somebody must have an idea."

Nobody speaks.

"Listen," the president says, "we have a lot at stake there and I've got to have some ideas from you. I promise the Saturday Evening Post will be kept in the dark."

Someone coughs, but nobody says anything.

"All right, if that's the way you want it, I'll call on you to speak. Lyndon, what do you have to say?"

"Mr. President, I'd like to take this opportunity to wish you and Mrs. Kennedy a very, very Merry Christmas."

"But what about the Congo, Lyndon?"

"Mr. President, I'm sure you know the situation better than anybody and I think it would be silly for somebody like me, a mere vice-president, to even discuss the subject with you."

"I'll be back to you, Bobby, what do you think we should do about Tshombe?"

"I haven't given the problem much thought, Mr. President, but anything you want to do is okay with the attorney-general's office."

"That's not the point. I want to know how each one of you feels. Mr. McNamara, how does the situation look to the military?"

"Just fine, Mr. President. Anytime you give us the word we'll do anything you want us to. After all, you're the Commander-in-Chief."

"Maxwell, you must have some ideas."

"Mr. President, I think the Secretary expressed my views. It's your baby, and we're here to take your command."

"Bundy, I asked you to draw up a position paper on this. Would you read it to us?"

"Gee, Mr. President, I didn't want to put anything like that down on paper."

"But where do we stand on Katanga?"

"I'd rather not say, sir, if it's all the same to you. We've got to have complete secrecy on this or we'll lose the initiative. I'm afraid to tell you, sir, our position on this matter must remain confidential."

"I don't know what our position is," the President shouts. "Yes, sir, this is one secret that won't leak out to the press."

"Mr. Dillon, will we have to give the Congo more funds to support the UN effort there?"

"Anything you say, Mr. President."

"Gentlemen, none of you are being co-operative. Now let's forget about what happened the last time and get down to business. I've got to have some ideas on this."

All right, Mr. Stevenson, would you like to tell us where you stand on the Congo issue?"

Mr. Stevenson looks up from his empty pad and says, "Are you kidding?"

SHEILAH GRAHAM Fans Rumors

Love on the Rocks?

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Are the William Holden preparing an announcement? ... And the talk is again swirling around Shirley MacLaine and a recent leading man.

Elizabeth Taylor's $1,000,000 for her three weeks work in VIP's is surely the highest salary anyone has ever received in the entertainment field. And Richard Burton's $500,000 for the same period isn't bad either.

Mel Ferrer is in Rome, and Audrey Hepburn is in Paris—and, of course, such proximity always starts rumors which I hope, in this case, aren't true. ... And what's this I hear about Sidney Lumet, apparently separated from Gloria Vanderbilt, and the daughter of a very well-known entertainer?

When Peter Glenville was in Hollywood recently, a faded femme in the motion-picture business sighed, "People in Hollywood don't know how to live." Whereupon Peter fixed her with his pleasant smile and said, "And some people don't know when to die." It's a fact that a lot of the oldsters here hang on, which makes it hard for the young ones to get a break.

Shirley MacLaine's withdrawal from First Wife a week before production was to start, really pulled the rug from under producer Hal Wallis. He's now stuck with the contracts of Martha Mier, Van Johnson and Shelley Winters, all engaged for the picture.

I don't think that Bette Davis should go it alone in her next picture, Dead Pigeon. It was the combination of Bette with Joan Crawford that in my opinion accounted for the success of What Ever Happened to Baby Jane? They should be a team and make several more movies together.

Max Schell is in Mexico for a week, then home to Munich for a rest before he goes to Hamburg in March to star on stage in Hamlet. Max has already made it as a movie. He will take the Shakespeare tragedy to London, and he hopes to New York. His Condemned of Altona movie with Sophia Loren is No. 1 at the box office in Italy.

The John Mills, according to their oldest daughter Julia, have never had a quarrel in all their married life. How many married couples, especially in the entertainment world—where nerves often get frayed, can say they have never quarreled?

How coincidental—can one get? When Ian Fleming announced "James Bond" series, "James Bond" would marry in his next book, From Russia with Love. Bond in Doctor No, flew to Gibraltar and married actress Diane Cilento!

Card Weather

Mailmen Hope For Snow!

By CHARLES McDOWELL

The people down at the post office are rooting shamelessly for bad weather this weekend. Snow would suit the post office fine, but it will settle for weather that is merely cold, blustery and generally unpleasant.

If the weather is bad enough, we citizens will stay in the house where it's warm and quit putting off addressing our Christmas cards. If the weather is good, a significant number of trouble-makers will find other things to do and won't get around to their Christmas cards until next week, throwing the post office off its timing.

When the weather is suitably bad, the results are sensational—nearly all the cards come in to the post office on Monday. The influence of climate and psychology on Christmas mail was explained to us the other day when we visited a post office to watch the parcel post handlers who are already in the worst of the rush.

We stopped to watch a handy fellow taking packages out of a vast pile and tossing them as far as 30 feet into canvas tubs tagged for various destinations. He was fast and as accurate as a pro quarterback.

So many jokes have been made about the handling of packages marked "fragile" that we waited to see what our man would do with one of them. He picked one up, spotted the label out of the corner of his eye, and hurried it unceremoniously into the farthest tub.

But the box more apt to be the "fragile" package than he had on the others, and we like to think it made a gentler landing.

U.S. Explodes Low-Yield Blasts

WASHINGTON (API)—Two low-yield nuclear tests were set off underground by the United States Wednesday at its Nevada test site. The Atomic Energy Commission announced the tests in a brief statement.

A low-yield device has the blast force of not more than 20,000 tons of TNT.

One of three registered rabbit judges in Canada, Gordon Ash, 3248 Glasgow, also raises rabbits for own pleasure and profit. Here he holds Black Silver Marten while leaning on rabbit skin tanned by his wife, Betty, who makes various articles out of skins.—(Bud Kinsman)

Local Judge Busy

Bunnies Fun, Profitable In Backyard

By JURGEN HESSE

All you throw away is the head.

The rest—98.7 per cent—is either edible in 300 different ways, brings a profit from $5 to $10, makes postage glue, excellent omens, Hollywood star cosmetic brushes, best manure in the world and more, and more, and more.

What are we talking about? Why, rabbits, what else.

ONE OF THREE

Victoria is the proud owner of one of Canada's three registered rabbit judges. He carries mail for a living and gives rabbits an inscrutable eye for a paying hobby.

His wife is a rabbit addict too.

LOTS OF TRAVELLING

Mr. Ash travels all over B.C., Alberta, Oregon and Washington state several times a year to judge as many as 650 rabbits at one single go.

He acquired his love for rabbits in 1952 at a rabbit show in Portland when 5,000 rabbits were wheeled in by special train.

The Ashes even have rabbits in their bedroom, to be exact, in the closet—but in the form of furry hats, stoles, coats, muffs, toys, mittens and fur kittens.

That's Mrs. Ash's sideline as a housewife, and a rewarding one, because she enjoys it so much. She does her own rabbit fur tanning as well.

Communist Trial

Acquittal Motion Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal judge denied a defence motion for acquittal Thursday after both sides rested their cases in the trial of the Communist party of the United States on charges of failing to register with the government.

District Judge Alexander Holtzoff rejected the party's contention that it would be incriminating itself if it registered as an agent of the Soviet Union.

SURPRISE

The judge then excused the jury until 10 a.m. (EST) Monday, when it will return to begin deliberations. Holtzoff said he would decide at that time what legal questions would be submitted to the jury.

Termination of testimony, on this third day of the trial, came as a surprise.

Meanwhile Mr. Ash works under the jurisdiction of the American Rabbit Breeders' Association, which tested his rabbit-judging abilities in a series of stiff written exams over a period of years.

Judging rabbits pays anywhere from $50 to $150 per show, and after expenses something is left over to put in the bank—for more rabbits, of course.

THREE STAGES

Mr. Ash goes through three judging stages: first he checks the entire rabbit for disqualifications like crooked teeth, missing toe-nails, off-colored eyes, bowlegs, tumors.

Second, he judges type and fur, and third, after the rabbit has gone the way of all flesh—to death—he inspects the meat quality.

MANY USES

But now comes the best part about rabbits. Listen to this:

- Rabbits are used for meat, fur wool, laboratory, fertilizer, toys and novelties.

- Rabbit meat is good for stomach disorders—easily digested.

- Rabbits provide sure-fire pregnancy tests.

- Rabbits are the smartest animals—they add, multiply and subtract.

- Rabbits won't crow or talk back.

MEAT VALUE

But by far the most important factor about them is their meat value. It has become a regular industry. Rabbit meat in Victoria sells for about 70 cents a pound, chicken for about 40 cents, but when you come to the meat without bones, they're about at par.

Victoria's manually operated backyard rabbitries cannot stand up to "the mechanical perfection achieved in rabbit breeding in the U.S.—but it may be more fun, at that."

AUTOMATIC FEEDING

In the U.S., rabbitries feature automatic feeding, watering and a fog spray that turns on whenever it gets hotter than 70 degrees. Rabbits can't stand much heat, they die like flies.

But for all the care bestowed on those rabbits you wouldn't want to swap with them. Out of a maximum life span of seven years, commercially bred rabbits reach the age of two, privately raised species three years.

FUR GETS SHAGGY

Then they must die, or their fur gets shaggier and shaggier, their offspring get smaller, their meat tougher.

By the way, the RCAF survival course instructs cadets not to depend on wild rabbit meat if lost. After a week of rabbit dieting, you get weak, too weak for much walking.

And here comes the clincher, true or not, the breeders' association claims it as fact:

Germany kept in the war as long as she did because of its meat supply from backyard rabbitries.

Rail, Sea Evacuation Suggested

Civil defence authorities should give attention to the possibility of evacuation of Greater Victoria by rail and sea, the Oak Bay civil defence executive committee recommended Wednesday night.

The committee recommended that the Greater Victoria Target Area Control Committee give consideration to developing evacuation routes to Island which could be alternatives to the Trans-Canada Highway.

ONE HIGHWAY

"We tend to think in terms of one highway north," said committee member W. Geoffrey Ellis, urging that greater consideration be given to evacuation by rail.

Coun. Fred Robinson suggested ferries and fishing and pleasure craft could also be used. He said use of water transport could make the Saanich Peninsula usable as an evacuation route.

The committee was considering suggestions passed along by Oak Bay council from John Watts, not a committee member.

FORDS AT RIVERS

The committee also recommended target area officials consider Coun. Watt's suggestion of construction of fords as alternatives to bridges and use of provincial campsites for evacuation purposes.

A report of proposals by Greater Victoria officials for use of B.C. Hydro buses in evacuation brought sceptical reaction from some committee members.

The report said the main feature of the scheme is that bus drivers would pick up their families in the buses, then proceed to schools to pick up those without transportation. Committee members felt this might lead to buses running all over town and leaving persons stranded in the streets.

"The scheme would appear ridiculous on the face of it," a committee member said. But he agreed with suggestions the committee had not seen the full plans.

The committee authorized expenditures of approximately $400 on municipal civil defence headquarters.

The building superintendent will survey public buildings for suitability as fallout shelters.

Southern University Admits Two Negroes

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tulane University admitted two Negro women Wednesday, days after a federal court refused to order their enrolment. The university's board of administrators reaffirmed a decision of April 12, 1961, in which it said it would admit qualified students without regard to race or color.

Servants Ask Adjustments

Officers of the Civil Service Federation of Canada will ask the federal government next week for further wage increase adjustments to those announced earlier this week, it was learned yesterday.

Gordon Campbell, of Victoria, president of the federation's district council here, said he was informed of the complaint yesterday.

REPORTED LOWER

Federation officials in Ottawa had a close look at the announced increases and learned that they were "considerably lower in many cases than the Civil Service Commission had recommended," he said. "In 14 different categories (including Grade 2 clerks and typists who expressed discontent in Victoria) where increases were recommended, no pay increase was given," Mr. Campbell said.

TO GO TO GOVERNMENT

"The federation intends to go to the government next week in request for adjustments as recommended by the Civil Service Commission."

Wages of civil servants are based on pay scales of outside industry, and never set the pace for increases in private industry, he said.

Contract Given For Post Office

A $17,553 contract for construction of a new post office at Brentwood Bay was awarded to E. J. Hunter and Sons of Victoria.

Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton made the contract award announcement yesterday, on behalf of federal Works Minister E. Davis Fulton.

READY IN FOUR MONTHS

The new post office will be built on the West Saanich Road, and is scheduled to be completed within four months, as part of the department's winter works program.

E. J. Hunter and Sons submitted the lowest of nine bids, in public tenders which closed Nov. 21. The highest bid was $22,221.

The one-storey building will have a concrete foundation with wood frame construction. The exterior will be finished in painted asbestos cement board and brick veneer, while the interior finish will be plaster board and plywood, with linoleum floor covering.

Plans and specifications were prepared in the Vancouver district architect's office of the department of public works. R. J. Bickford, district architect, will supervise construction.

Doctor Loses Tax Case

OTTAWA (CP)—The tax appeal board has ruled that an Edmonton doctor who conducts no medical practice in his home may not claim a tax deduction for part of his household costs.

In a judgment made public Thursday, the board dismissed the appeal of Dr. Charles M. Learmonth, an anaesthetist. PART OF HOME CLAIMED Assistant board chairman R. S. W. Fordham said Dr. Learmonth claimed that between one-sixth and one-eighth of his home "should be regarded as used for professional purposes in that, for example, he read and studied professional text-books, journals and publications there."

NO ROOM SET ASIDE

He said the doctor had no room set aside to see patients in his home, and no name plate on the door.

Safety-Belt Makers Already Qualified

TORONTO (CP)—Most Canadian manufacturers of automobile safety belts already are more than qualified to meet an Ontario standards regulation which goes into effect at New Year's.

Transport Minister James Auld has announced that after Jan. 1 all such belts sold in Ontario must carry the approval stamp of the Society of Automotive Engineers or the Canadian Standards Association certifying that they have met certain standards of safety and good manufacture.

The CSA says its standards are basically the same as those of the SAE, which tests belts in the United States, but include added refinements that in effect could disqualify a belt carrying an SAE stamp.

Criticism was aroused in the industry more than a month ago when Desmond Dymond, managing engineer of the CSA's certification department here, was quoted in Vancouver as saying that no Canadian-made seat belt had met CSA safety standards when tests were instituted earlier in the year.

Mr. Dymond says this report, carried Oct. 31 by The Canadian Press, was erroneous and gave the impression that all Canadian belts were unsafe. This was not the case, he said.

In Moscow

Chinese Lashed By Tito

MOSCOW (UPI)—Yugoslav President Tito lashed out Thursday at Chinese Communist critics of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's Cuban crisis policy in a speech before a cheering supreme Soviet parliament that could only widen the breach between Moscow and Peking.

Tito was only one of a parade of speakers, including Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, to denounce Khrushchev's critics. But speech-making appearances by a foreign guest are rare and the fact that Tito was so honored was an added slap at China.

"VICTORY OF REASON"

Gromyko hailed the peaceful settlement of the Cuban crisis as a "victory of reason over folly" and called for restoration of wartime Soviet-American co-operation. The foreign minister also urged resumption of negotiations on the German and Berlin issue but set no deadlines.

(In Paris, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told the opening session of the NATO ministerial conference that the United States will not negotiate with the Soviet Union on other issues until the Cuban crisis is fully settled).

NOT NAMED

None of the speakers mentioned Communist China by name in their attacks. But the implications were clear—just as they were in Khrushchev's speech Wednesday.

Tito, who spoke for 15 minutes in fluent Russian, praised Khrushchev for his bold and statesman-like decision on Cuba and said that those who interpreted it as a sign of weakness were "shortsighted."

France Builds Strength

PARIS (Reuters)—French Premier Georges Pompidou Thursday gave priority to "reconversion" of the French army and the provision of a French nuclear strike force in an outline of his government's program to the National Assembly.

"We must carry out the reconversion of our army," the premier said.

BACK IN FRANCE

"Free from colonial wars, brought back for the most part to metropolitan France, our army will be supplied with an objective corresponding to its vocation while at the same time we must supply it with the modern arms it is at present lacking," he said.

The government intends to pursue the effort begun years ago to supply France with its own atomic force.

FACTORY WORKING

"The year 1962 saw the French bomb making decisive progress and parliament giving its agreement to the completion of the industrial atomic centre of Pierrelatte. I can tell you that this factory has begun to function in accordance with the estimates of our scientists and our engineers," he said.

Advance Vote Starts In Point Grey

VANCOUVER (CP)—Advance voting started Thursday for Monday's Point Grey provincial by-election.

The advance poll will be held until Saturday and any of the constituency's 85,682 registered voters may vote by signing a declaration that he will be unable to attend a poll Monday.

FOUR-WAY RACE

The election is being held to fill the vacancy created by the death this summer of Mrs. Bude Brown, minister without portfolio. Mrs. Eve Burns-Miller is attempting to hold the seat for Social Credit. Other candidates are Dr. Pat McGeer, Liberal, Anthony Holland, New Democratic Party, and Reg Atherton, Progressive Conservative.

PRESENT STANDINGS

Standing in the legislative at present is Social Credit 31, CCF-NDP 16, Liberal 4, vacant 1.

The New Democratic Party said it is investigating possible irregularities in the appointment of scrutineers for the election.

'Relay' Goes One-Up On Telstar

Amazing Penguin Finds Way Home But Abhors Cold

By RON FOULTON
Last of a Series

McMURDO STATION, Antarctica — In winter, when the long night sends the moon to replace the sun, this continent almost doubles its size and the ice continues its march downward from the Pole to the Southern Ocean.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Lifted aloft beautifully by a Thor-Delta rocket, a satellite called Relay slid into orbit Thursday night and soaked up solar energy in preparation for a series of communications experiments linking three continents.

A little more than three hours after liftoff, as Relay completed its first trip around the earth, a spokesman for the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it was in orbit and "the orbit looks extremely close to nominal."

CHRISTMAS TV

First contact with Relay will be made today. If all goes well, the public will witness a Christmas television spectacular linking 11 countries in Europe and North America through Relay next Wednesday. The program will feature Yuletide preparations on both continents.

Relay is a first cousin to the Europe-U.S.-linking Telstar satellite.

'Heart' Built In Canada

MONTREAL (CP) — A team of Canadian engineers and technicians built the vital receiver-transmitter of the relay communications satellite.

John D. Houlding, president of RCA Victor Company Limited of Canada, developer of the "heart," said "all Canadians can take personal pride in the launching" of Relay I.

The Canadian team was led by Bruce MacKinnon, head of the company's technical division, and James N. Brooks, the project manager.

Bennett Vote Date His Best Weapon

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Facing a two-pronged attack capable of extinguishing Social Credit's light in B.C., Premier Bennett's most effective weapon is his prerogative to name the date of the next provincial election.

He has from now until late in 1965 to go to the people and already some newspapers are speculating on whether he will go early or late. Such speculation is not of the usual once-removed-from-fact variety but is twice removed because it must anticipate what the premier will decide and not what he has decided.

For if there is one certainty on B.C.'s ever-changing political scene it is that no election timing has yet jelled. Premier Bennett is regarded even among his own as an astute political strategist and he would hardly crystallize his tactics without the knowledge to be gained from the Dec. 17 Vancouver-Point Grey byelection and the legislative session which commences Jan. 24.

Four-to-One for Project CIVIC SQUARE DRAWS BIG 'YES'

By IAN STREET

Victoria last night surged into its second century of municipal government with a smashing four-to-one endorsement by ratepayers of the Centennial Square civic plaza project.

"The city is on the move," said a jubilant Mayor R. B. Wilson. "This magnificent endorsement of the scheme is a clear indication that the people of Victoria want immediate action, which city council will provide."

QUICK ACTION

Ald. A. W. Toome, in charge of planning the project, and one of three incumbents who won re-election last night, said his committee will meet Monday to implement the mandate given to council.

"This is the first indication of solid progress towards a more beautiful and economically healthy Victoria," he said.

The vote on the bylaw to give council authority to borrow up to $350,000 to carry out the project within four years was 4,096 in favor, 1,019 against. It required a 60 per cent majority to pass.

'DELIGHTED'

Ald. Arthur Dowell, also re-elected, said that as chairman of finance he had no doubt yesterday's vote ensured the Centennial Square project will "proceed with all haste." He

Dressless Lass Tricked by Toe

DENVER (UPI) — Linda Jane Hinchman is a freshman at Colorado Women's College here. She is a lovely brunette, 17 years old, from Glenwood, Ind.

She was taking a bath in preparation for the evening meal Thursday night when she decided to stick her toe into the water faucet.

It got stuck.

A distress call brought four Denver squad cars with sirens screaming, fire equipment and ladder crews.

Five Denver firemen charged up the stairs and dashed into the bathroom, by now crowded with giggling girls as well as the well-bundled Miss Hinchman.

Assistant Fire chief John de Jong said, "We did our job and got out of there."

The firemen sawed off the faucet and extricated the toe with petroleum jelly.

Miss Hinchman kept the faucet for a souvenir.

Science Tunes Ears For Venus Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mariner II, a 447-pound package of measuring devices and radio equipment, brushes past Venus at 3:01 p.m. EST today, a mere 20,000 miles or so from the planet.

Crossing their fingers against any last-hour difficulty, scientists on both U.S. coasts prepared to eavesdrop on Mariner's 42 minutes of special near-Venus reports.

The coded signals will be relayed to telephone and amplified at a press conference here.

The special data itself will take four weeks or more to analyze.

MANCHESTER (UPI) — Britain's Jodrell Bank observatory reported it had picked up new signals Thursday from the Mariner II.

Vancouver Plan

Tube to Link North Shore

VANCOUVER (CP) — A proposal for a $30,000,000 tunnel and bridge harbor crossing between Vancouver and suburban North Shore communities was unveiled Thursday by Premier Bennett.

It would involve a tunnel 4,000 feet long, and a man-made 200-acre island near the harbor entrance. Financing would be handled privately by the two firms proposing to build the project.

Their venture has "the full sympathy" of the government, Mr. Bennett said.

BRIDGE PRESENT

The province would in turn hand over the First Narrows bridge—one of the two existing crossings to North and West Vancouver—to the municipalities concerned.

An early start could see the tunnel finished in four years. Companies involved are Christiani and Nielson of Canada Ltd. and Foundation of Canada Engineering Corp. Ltd.

RUN TO ISLAND

A spokesman for Christiani and Nielson said the four-lane tunnel would run from West Vancouver to the island, where traffic would take a bridge to Vancouver.

The three-lane First Narrows Bridge—known as Lion's Gate—now serves West Vancouver with considerable rush-hour delay.

The engineering firms also envision a high-rise apartment construction on the island. Revenue from this and tolls from the tunnel and First Narrows bridge would be used to pay for the cost of the new crossing.

Negro Toll Now 13

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Negroes undergoing a police search in a railway car hacked a white officer to death Thursday, touching off a battle in which seven Negroes were shot and killed, officials reported.

Three white policemen on the train were wounded by the Negroes with long knives and firearms. Two of the policemen suffered bullet wounds, police said.

Six Negroes were killed and three white policemen were wounded Wednesday in an armed clash near the home of Transkei's senior tribal chief, Matanzima.

Two Goalies Play Standout Games But Bruins' Perrault Saves Tie

Not Quitting

Bill Skewron, Yankee first baseman traded to Los Angeles Dodgers, denies he'll quit game to coach baseball at Purdue, as reported in Cincinnati paper Wednesday.

Great goalkeeping was wasted in one game last night and brought only a tie in the other as Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens picked up some ground in the National Hockey League championship race.

Lorne Worsley, beaten three times in the first 10 minutes, was unbeatable the rest of the way and sensational in the second period but Detroit Red Wings made their early sprint stand up for a 3-2 win over New York Rangers in Detroit. At Montreal, Bobby Perrault, Boston Bruins' 31-year-old mookie, was even better than Worsley as he gave his club a 1-1 tie with Canadiens before the smallest Forum crowd of the season—12,883 fans.

Wings, who keep winning the games they need, got within two points of the lead by winning and still hold two games in hand on Chicago Black Hawks. And their ability to master the Rangers, the club most feel they have to beat out for a playoff spot, augurs well for the Detroit future. Wings have won four and tied one of six games with the Blueshirts this season.

Detroit's first line led the way last night, centre Alex Devecchio getting a goal and two assists and Parker McDonaid and Gordie Howe each getting one goal and an assist in making the New York winless streak reach a sixth game.

At Montreal, Forbes Kennedy gave the improved Bruins a 1-0 lead in the first period and hard skating and Perrault's phenomenal puck-blocking almost made it enough.

Result moved Canadiens into a third-place tie with Toronto and put the Bruins, who have two ties and a win in their last three games, within six points of the Rangers with two games in hand.

Perrault's second period display all but broke the back of the Montreal attack. He stopped seven "impossible" close-range shots, three by Gilles Tremblay, two by Don Marshall and one each by Bob Rousseau and Jean Beliveau. But the shot Perrault missed was a 30-footer which went between his pads as he appeared to misjudge the speed of Claude Provost's drive.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

THEY'LL NEED IT: A headline in The Sporting News reads "Majors pick up $10,000,000 tab in minors." It's a lot of money, but it won't last too long under the present set-up.

In an effort to streamline professional minor league baseball, each of the 20 major league clubs agreed to provide playing personnel for one AAA club. This in turn resulted in the formation of two AAA leagues of 10 teams and in the manner of professional baseball, everyone sat back and complimented themselves on a job well done.

That Vancouver Mounties, disenfranchised without a by-year leave to get down to the 20 clubs, are threatening to sue but whether or not they can make it stick there's other trouble ahead. It seems obvious that an atlas was lacking when the new format was drawn up.

The International League now extends from Toronto to Little Rock, Arkansas, and Jacksonville, Florida. It's 1,107 miles from Syracuse to Little Rock, 881 miles from Toronto to Jacksonville and there are two other jumps of more than 900 miles.

However, compared to the new Pacific Coast league, the tattered through-out hockey from New York to California and reaches from Dallas-Fort Worth and Oklahoma City, both only a couple of hundred miles from Little Rock, to Honolulu. It's 3,819 miles from Honolulu to Fort Worth and 3,738 miles from Honolulu to Oklahoma City as compared with the longest major league span of 2,598 miles from Boston to Los Angeles. And it's more than 1,700 miles from Dallas-Fort Worth and more than 1,500 miles from Oklahoma City to the Pacific Northwest teams in Seattle, Spokane, Tacoma and Portland. For minor league baseball it just has to be impossible.

WELL SCATTERED: Former Victoria Cougars are sent International is quite a compact little circuit. The PCL now from Tennessee to Saskatchewan. It's impossible to trace all of them still playing hockey but close to 50 were checked off with a minimum of research.

Skip Teal, unbelievably not yet 30, is at Clinton and Clare Waskiniski and Gene Achymichuk at Knoxville in the United States Eastern Hockey League; Warren Back at Muskegon, Mickey Keating and Elliott Chorley at St. Paul, Nels Bullock at Fort Wayne and Pat Ginnell and Gordie Cowan at Omaha in the International Hockey League; Don Blackburn at Kingston and Bert Pizzell at Syracuse in the Eastern Professional Hockey League; Wayne Brown and Bill Forhan are playing in the amateur ranks in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Providence Reds of the American Hockey League are built around a nucleus of Stan Baluk, Ed Mazur, Larry Leach, George Ranieri and Bob Beckett and Denny Olson and Ted Harris are at Springfield. Tony Schneider, who will be longest remembered here for the beating up he took from Marcel Bonin, is playing with Regina Caps of the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League, and Don McLeod and Colin Kilburn, at Burbank and Bakersfield, respectively, are playing in the new California's senior league. Andy Hebertson and Marcel Pelletier are with New York Rangers and there are no less than 22 ex-Cougars currently listed on Western Hockey League rosters. Blackburn and Teal, incidentally, are making a run for scoring honors in their leagues.

NOT POOLING: Montreal Alouettes, who might have been the best football club in Canada this season but for a long string of injuries, seem to be leaving nothing to chance for next season. Signing of Dick Hoppmann from Iowa State, good enough to make several All-America clubs, sets up quite a backfield. Hoppmann is scheduled for a halfback post with Don Clark and George Dixon as fullbacks but the rookie ace is quite a passer and he will be handy if Sandy Stephens can't cut it at quarterback.

But there's more. The Alouettes also signed guard Dick Walton of Iowa State, third draft choice of the Detroit Lions, and we read in an American newspaper that Ed Beard, 230-pound tackle, and Jack Nichols, 215-pound fullback, who couldn't make their grades at Tennessee, have already agreed to go to Montreal. Both are rated top prospects.

LOOKS ENDS: Richard Nixon, defeated Republican presidential candidate in 1960 and later this year in California's gubernatorial race, is among those mentioned as the successor to baseball Commissioner Ford Frick but it's no likely thing. A Montreal report says that quarterback Sandy Stephens signed a three-year, no-cut contract at $30,000 per year and picked up a $15,000 signing bonus to be spread over the three years before agreeing to play for the Alouettes. . . . Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League are already worrying about 1965. The American Bowling Congress tournament is set for War Memorial Stadium for 79 days starting Feb. 14, leaving the Americans without their ice surface.

Dave Mann, star halfback for Toronto Argonauts, gets his Canadian citizenship papers before the next football season for anyone else who may have been wondering. Nobby Winkowski, the former quarterback now coaching the Argos, was christened Norbert. . . . With Chamberlain in latest available figures is averaging 32.5 points a game and on his way to still another National Basketball Association record. By contrast, Elgin Baylor, considered by most now the most complete player in basketball, is averaging 31.5 points a game. . . . Most sought-after lineman in college football this year was signed by Dallas Texans of the American Football League before the NFL held its draft. He is the already-labeled Jimmie Buchanan, a six-foot, seven-inch 275-pounder from little Grinnell College who is said to be as fast as all but the very fastest halfbacks. . . . Pro football drafting indicates the Big Ten is the strongest college conference. Six of the first 11 NFL choices and 37 players in all were selected from Big Ten clubs.

Custer Had It Easier Coaching Indians Lesson in Diplomacy

By DON DEDERA
Copley News Service

PHOENIX, Ariz. — On Joe Famulatte's first day as coach at St. John's Indian Mission he thought of Custer at Little Big Horn.

"I had never seen any Indians close up," Joe recalled. "I walked out, on the sun-baked field, not a blade of grass in sight, wide open land, horses running in all directions. I chased the horses off the playing field, and spotted my team dozing in the shade of a tamarisk."

"So I says, 'How about some practice, boys?'"

"And they look at me dead pan and don't move. A padre comes out of the mission and tells me the score. The star player and straw boss of the team is a big Papago boy. If I want the team to practise, I've got to work through him. So I'm not proud. I ask the Papago boy to please ask the team to practise."

It was the beginning of Joe Famulatte's wacky and wonderful career in Indian coaching.

When Joe came to Phoenix 10 years ago he was accustomed to winning. To Guadalajara and back, he shared victories in the Second World War. He was starting centre and fullback at George Washington University, and captain and 400 hitter on the baseball team. He was winning coach for a New York high school when sinus trouble and a smart doctor sent him to Arizona.

And pretty soon he was ankle-deep in the alkali dust at St. John's, 17 miles into the desert southwest of Phoenix. Twenty-five of the 50 high school youths had turned out for football. They awaited the words of paleface wisdom.

In those first weeks, he made all the mistakes. He unthinkingly insulted an Apache lad, who stalked off the field. Joe won him back by yelling: "Look, you! I'm a white man, and I'm new at this. I'm on your side, so give me a chance."

After a couple of years at St. John's, Famulatte became head coach for football, basketball and baseball at Phoenix Indian School.

At the big city school, all of his St. John's problems were present, compounded by 15 Indian tribes.

"There were 100 Indians on the field, and they all looked alike to me," he said. "After three weeks of practice, I didn't know one from another. We met undefeated Litchfield. We ran the kickoff to the 20, and in six plays we drove to the Litchfield two-yard line. On third down I sent in a play."

"And I'll be damned if instead of running my pitchout around end, they tried the middle and were thrown for a two-yard loss."

"I sent in the same play again. They ran it up the middle again, and were thrown back to the six-yard line. We lost 30-7."

"In the dressing room, I'm ready to scalp somebody. They explain it to me. All the men in the backfield are Hopis, and they don't speak to the line, which is all Navajos and Pimas."

"See why I lost most of my hair, and the rest has turned white?"

"From that day on, I don't ask, 'How much do you weigh?' I ask, 'What tribe are you with?' I make sure all the tribes are represented."

Famulatte has not fielded a winning team, but if the Indian boys have been consistent losers at football they are positive terrors at basketball.

Joe Famulatte's Indians, with their superior endurance, have worn down many a flashy white team with their full-purse style of play. The diminutive Braves swarm like bees around their taller opponents, and they shoot from any corner.

"They've got to," said Joe. "I've never had a six-footer. My team looks like it's sitting down all the time."

Fans for Mounties Suddenly Appear

VANCOUVER (CP)—Baseball boosters are planning a million-petition protesting the ouster of Vancouver Mounties from the Pacific Baseball League.

Ken Howarth, spokesman for the Save Our Mounties committee, said between 1,700 and 2,000 fans have signed the petition to date.

Copies of the petition will be sent to the baseball commissioner Ford Frick, George Trautman, head of the minor leagues, and PCL directors who meet in Salt Lake City this weekend.

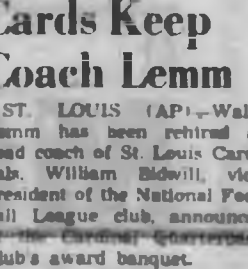

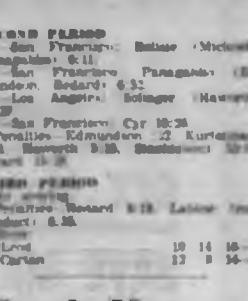

Howarth said 500 fans have signed pledges to purchase a minimum $10 in tickets if the Mounties operate. And even if they don't, "we'll simply get the fans to pledge support for 1964," Howarth said.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—San Francisco's veteran Seals got within two points of second place in the Southern Division of the Western Hockey League Thursday night by defeating Los Angeles Blades, 3-1.

All the scoring for the 7,776 fans came in the second period, the Seals getting a start by scoring while Gordie Haworth sat out a penalty.

Sweden Thumps Saskatoon, 7-0

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Sweden's world championship hockey team thumped Saskatoon Quakers 7-0 here Thursday night, handing the Canadians a solid setback in the first game of a two-game exhibition series.

The game won the approval of 15,000 cheering Swedish fans. Factors in the lopsided win were fatigue the Canadians suffered from a long plane flight Wednesday, and difficulty in adapting to European rules.

The Swedes, most of them members of the team that topped the world championship at Colorado Springs, Colo., last winter, outclassed the Quakers in a very department. They elicited for three goals in the first period, played through a scoreless second frame and walloped in four more in the final period.

Penalties hurt the Canadians as the Czechoslovakian referees applied the European rules, far more stringent than those in Canadian hockey, to the letter. The Quakers drew a total of nine penalties to three for the Swedes. Defenceman Vic Lynn of the Canadian squad alone drew penalties totalling 20 minutes.

The Swedes took control from the start with fast-paced attacks.

Sweden's world championship hockey team thumped Saskatoon Quakers 7-0 here Thursday night, handing the Canadians a solid setback in the first game of a two-game exhibition series.

The game won the approval of 15,000 cheering Swedish fans. Factors in the lopsided win were fatigue the Canadians suffered from a long plane flight Wednesday, and difficulty in adapting to European rules.

The Swedes, most of them members of the team that topped the world championship at Colorado Springs, Colo., last winter, outclassed the Quakers in a very department. They elicited for three goals in the first period, played through a scoreless second frame and walloped in four more in the final period.

Penalties hurt the Canadians as the Czechoslovakian referees applied the European rules, far more stringent than those in Canadian hockey, to the letter. The Quakers drew a total of nine penalties to three for the Swedes. Defenceman Vic Lynn of the Canadian squad alone drew penalties totalling 20 minutes.

New Yorkers Out of Touch

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Take away 5,500,000 newspapers a day and life just isn't the same for New Yorkers.

It isn't only a matter of trying to keep up with local, national and world news during the newspaper shutdown but cause of the printers' strike, which started last Saturday. It the absence of other things for granted that leaves an unreal void.

The housewife has no newspaper advertisements to browse through in search of bargains or to compare prices as she plans her Christmas shopping.

MISS TV LISTINGS

The youngsters and adults miss television program listings and the comics.

The city's millions of commuters, without their usual papers, scrounge for any reading material available.

What's at the movies tonight? Who knows?

Was the new show on Broadway a hit or a miss? Or was there a new show?

POSTPONE OPENING

Hidden Stranger, a drama scheduled to open Dec. 29, put it off until an unspecified time in January "in hopes the newspaper strike will have ended by then."

Stockholders hardly know whether they are winning or losing without their familiar financial pages and closing prices.

READ FUNNIES

The radio and television stations have greatly expanded their news and advertising coverage, even to reading comics and presenting society items in some cases.

Stock brokerage houses issue mimeographed sheets listing prices of major stocks. Some keep an office open evenings to handle calls for information.

Some neighborhood and college newspapers have gone "big time" with expanded coverage and boosted circulations and out-of-city newspapers are selling well.

TV System Escapes Bomb Damage

TRAIL (CP) — The Trail Times says the cross-Canada television microwave system narrowly escaped disruption last spring when two bombs failed to explode at the base of one of its relay towers.

The newspaper says a tower inspector found two 45-stick dynamite bombs at the base of a tower, one of the links for relay of television, telephone, teletype, radio and radar signals.

RCMP investigators said the bombs were set to go off March 6, the same day a giant power pylon was felled by bombs on Kootenay Lake.

The Times says the microwave tower would have to move only a fraction of an inch from its base to upset the entire Canadian system.

Court Clerk in Double Role

Saanich court clerk and reporter Thomas Nisbit found himself in the unique position yesterday of giving testimony and at the same time writing it down for the official record.

The incident occurred during the preliminary attempted murder hearing of Peter Howard Dootson, charged with attacking Robert Robinson in the Colquitz mental home staff quarters.

Prosecutor Kenneth Murphy suddenly realized he would have to call the court clerk and reporter for testimony, but that no other official stenographer was immediately available.

"It's a curious position for the reporter," Magistrate William Ostler commented.

SPEAKING SLOWLY

It was finally agreed that if prosecutor, defence counsel Alan Bigelow and all concerned spoke slowly, Mr. Nisbit would take on the double job.

He gave his testimony from his desk in front of the magistrate, rather than from the official witness box, speaking and writing in careful phrases.

Mr. Nisbit had been a passenger in a car containing the accused Dootson, and three other police officers, and testified that day with testimony from two scientific experts from Vancouver.

The hearing will continue Dec. 26, and is expected to conclude that day with testimony from two scientific experts from Vancouver.

Free Bus Aids 'Relations'

DUNCAN — Improvement in labor-management relations was seen in the Hillcrest Lumber Co. decision to reinstate one bus by IWA local 1-80 president Percy Clements.

After a temporary settlement in the long-standing bus dispute was found in mid-June the company re-established one bus from Duncan to the logging camp which will be continued, Hillcrest director Peter Stone said.

If the same offer had been made a year ago the dispute perhaps never would have happened, said Mr. Clements.

"As a result of the union's complete refusal on behalf of some 70 loggers involved to adopt the recommendation from the labor department appointee heading a settlement committee, we are compelled to continue operation of one logging bus, for the present time, from Duncan to Mesachie Lake," said Mr. Stone.

The further withdrawal of the free bus service would result in another work stoppage, he added.

Before the bus dispute arose at the beginning of 1962 two buses, one from Duncan and one from Lake Cowichan, provided the transportation service, Mr. Stone said.

Outgoing Chairman Picked As Rural Representative

NANAIMO—Waldie Manion, outgoing school board chairman of District 68, was re-elected as rural representative for Zone 4 at Wednesday night's meeting of rural representatives of School District 68.

He said he would not be continuing as chairman next year. Trustee Harold Godfrey said: "He has served this community well. We have enjoyed his chairmanship, and his hard work is appreciated."

DID NOT RUN

Newly-elected Mrs. T. J. Morgan of South Cedar and A. R. Luck of Harewood replace Mrs. W. Coats of Gabriola Island and Arthur Day, who did not run for re-election. Jack Whitlam was elected as trustee at last week's civic elections.

These three new members will join trustees Waldie Manion, Joe Shook, R. Baugh Allen, Harold Godfrey, Mrs. E. L. Tully and Bill Lerch in School District 68.

TIME HAD COME

Representatives said the time had come to reorganize the school district zones. Departure Bay, one of the largest areas because of its recent housing development, has inadequate representation, and so have other districts. "The whole structure must be examined," Mr. Manion said.

Under the act governing rural representation, student population is the basis of representation. An attendance area with up to 100 students elects one representative, and an additional representative is allowed for every 100 students.

CAUSE FOR CONCERN

When zones with six or more representatives are allowed only one trustee and are put on a par with zones representing a much smaller part of the school population, there is cause for concern.

Hospital Receives New Gift

NANAIMO—Nanaimo hospital auxiliary has made another generous gift to the new regional hospital.

Recent donation of $36,000 for the furnishings of two complete nurseries is in addition to November donations for the furnishing of a private room, a solarium and a new metal library wagon.

CANTEN HELPED

The savings account, opened three years ago to have money on hand for the then projected new hospital, has been boosted by the auxiliary through canteen operation.

Mrs. C. C. Browne, with the auxiliary for 20 years, currently president, said the money was raised by the enthusiasm of the members. Work parties are set up in the spring, and there is no shortage of willing help. Membership is increasing every year.

JANUARY OPENING

The council of auxiliaries will take over the canteen and the show cases when the new regional hospital is officially opened Jan. 6, 1963.

Arson Hearing Slated

Open-Shelf Library 'Of Little Use' To Most Readers

The Open Shelf Library in the legislative buildings—a free service to residents of unorganized territory—is open such a short period each day that it is of little use to most students and working persons, a Parent-Teacher council spokesman said yesterday.

Mrs. Alice Hardisty, secretary of the Sooke school district council, said "pressure from residents of our school district not satisfied with the services offered by the Open Shelf Library, led our council to investigate the possibility of obtaining improved library facilities."

NO REFLECTION

"This was no reflection on the Open Shelf Library, which operates very efficiently within its limits," she said.

"Our aim is to provide the children and adults of our district with the pleasure and privilege of local library service at the least possible cost," Mrs. Hardisty said.

"We hope to obtain for all residents the opportunity to handle and choose their reading material personally and to have a variety of reference books available at convenient times."

PRECLUDED

"The hours of the Open Shelf Library preclude this to most students and employed adults," she said.

A spokesman for the Open Shelf Library said earlier that if Sooke school district ratepayers vote in favor of using

Situation Normal

Building Faults Minor

Alarm of students at faults in the new Clearihue building on the Gordon Head campus of Victoria University is exaggerated, development board members said last night after a personal inspection.

The inspection tour yesterday afternoon was arranged after the student publication, The Martlet, claimed the building was "a real lemon" with cracks one-half an inch wide around almost every window" in the temporary library. "Hundreds" of cracks throughout the building and leaking window frames.

SOME MISSING

Some of the defects were found by the inspection tour, others were not.

"Students had to occupy the building before the contractor had completed the work," architect John Wade said. "Otherwise many of these things would have been corrected before it was occupied."

"The aluminum-framed windows and doors came from the east and gaskets to make them waterproof were late in arriving. As the building had to be occupied at the beginning of the classes, they were installed without gaskets."

ALL SETTLE

"All concrete buildings settle over a period of two years and these minor cracks may develop. This does not indicate poor workmanship or structural failure."

"They are filled in later and contractors prefer to wait as long as possible to let the building settle."

"There are problems in all new buildings and this one seems to have no more than any other."

REPAIRS AT NIGHT

Workmen are working nights to correct deficiencies in the building as classes are held during the day.

Harold B. Elworthy, chairman of the University Development Board, said it might be necessary in the future for buildings not to be occupied by students until they had been officially inspected by architects and accepted as completed by the board.

"It is true that the contractor has been behind schedule in completing a list of minor deficiencies, such as the repainting of some areas, caulking of some of the windows, cleaning and plastering around basement windows."

STORAGE ONLY

"Our architects have submitted a list of more than 30 items requiring repair and alterations. The building will not be accepted by Victoria College until all of these deficiencies have been repaired to the satisfaction of all concerned."

Floyd Fairclough, a member of the board, said the present temporary library is a room in the basement which was planned as storage space only.

NOISY PLUMBING

He said plumbing—which sparked complaint in The Martlet article—was not covered as the library is only housed in the basement temporarily.

The Martlet contended: "Water and waste, rushing through these pipes, is hardly conducive to study let alone indicative of sound architectural design."

Publicity for All

New Tourist Body Needs $100,000

A new tourist organization, formed yesterday to assist the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau, will seek to raise $100,000 from everyone on Vancouver Island who benefits from the tourist dollar.

It will canvass not only hotels, motels and restaurants, but gas stations, stores, and others even remotely connected with the tourist industry.

More than 100 representatives of Vancouver Island's tourist industry attended the formation meeting at the Empress Hotel yesterday.

Names suggested for the organization were Tourists Unlimited, Hospitality Group of Vancouver Island, Greater Victoria and Island Tourist Council, Treasure Island Association, Allied Services Group and Hospitality Incorporated.

A committee was nominated to activate the group and to choose a name. The committee is made up of 13 representatives from 12 island areas, with two members from Victoria, and will meet the first week of January in Nanaimo.

There were 60 Victoria representatives at the meeting and 35 from island points as far away as Campbell River.

"Our main objective is to bring these tourists," chairman Stanley Booker told the group. "We wish to see everybody who benefits from the tourist industry united and working for a publicity campaign. We hope to match the money we get from these businesses with money from the provincial government, dollar for dollar."

The money must be turned over to the new Island publicity bureau being formed Jan. 17 to take advantage of government grants, Mr. Booker said.

"We are not stepping on anyone's feet," he said. "We are only trying to organize to do what the publicity bureau will not be doing."

The funds to be raised will be used for external publicity to get tourists to the island, he explained. "If we get only $10 from small operators, this will amount to a lot of money."

Tourist promoter Sam Lane asked for assurances that the funds would be free of administration costs.

"Instead of a new association," asked Cecil Chapman, manager of Empress Hotel, "why don't we all back the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau?"

Publicity Bureau commissioner William Hawkins asked if the group intended to collect from banks, trust companies, laundries, municipalities, Mr. Hooker said they were looking for firms the bureau did not count as members.

Ian Ross, Butchart Gardens, made the motion which subsequently was seconded and passed.

It read: "This meeting is in favor of the formation of an organization to raise funds for the purpose of augmenting the finances of the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau."

The meeting was organized by Mr. Booker, president, V.I. Branch, Canadian Restaurant Association, Dr. Herbert Plattner, president, Auto Courts and Resorts Association, and Nicholas Renard, president, Victoria Hotel Association.

Jubilee Plan

Hospital Help Pledged

Support for the Royal Jubilee Hospital's $1,000,000 expansion program was pledged by Esquimalt council yesterday.

Council agreed in principle after making an inspection tour of the hospital's existing facilities.

"When we saw things as they were it became obvious to council that the need for expanded facilities was desperate," said Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

He said he had put the hospital expansion program before council in a committee meeting Monday but they were not prepared to accept it "just like that."

Under the expansion program municipalities have been asked to contribute $140,000 for construction of a new nurses' home and laboratory. Payments from the municipalities would be distributed over a five-year period.

Under the municipal cost-sharing plan, Reeve Wurtele said Esquimalt's share of the total would come to $12,750.

Reeve Wurtele said the hospital board, "does not in any way wish to influence St. Joseph's Hospital fund drive."

It was for this reason municipal councils had been asked to discuss the expansion program in camera, he said.

He pointed out the expansion was not going to the general public for funds. "They are seeking help purely through the municipalities," he said.

To help finance the project the hospital is adding $100,000 of its own funds and a donation of $150,000 has been pledged by an anonymous donor.

Balance of the money is expected to come from senior governments.

Recovered Anchor From Gale Victim?

Vancouver Island historian George Nicholson believes the anchor discovered off Esquimalt Lagoon last week may have belonged to one of four sailing vessels wrecked in a gale off Royal Roads in 1863.

The ships were the Gattysburg, Connaught, Tiger and Southern Chief. They all foundered the same night, April 14.

The anchor has been put back in the water to prevent deterioration because of contact with the air.

PRESERVATIVE

Col. John Symons, curator of the maritime museum, told the Colonist last night "Mr. Sewell of the Pacific Naval Laboratory is endeavoring to procure a preservative to be applied to the anchor when it is brought up again."

Col. Symons earlier estimated the age of the anchor at 130 to 175 years old.

NOT ADMIRALTY

"To the best of my knowledge it is not an admiralty anchor," Col. Symons told the Colonist.

"The admiralty wooden stocks had square or rectangular cross-sections," he said, "this anchor has a circular cross-section."

Col. Symons said he had written to the National Maritime Museum in London, England, in an effort to establish age and identity of the anchor.

Familiar Kettles Back on Corners

Salvation Army Invites Sharing to Meet Christmas Needs

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

The Christmas kettles of the Salvation Army are on Victoria streets again inviting citizens to contribute to the Christmas dinners of about 350 needy Victoria households.

Salvationists are manning between seven and nine of the kettles—actually plastic spheres—in Victoria during store hours on 12 days of this year's Christmas season.

All proceeds, Maj. Ronald Freewing said last night, go to the Army's Christmas program and to emergency winter relief—none to the Army's other works.

He said names are submitted to the Army of various households thought to need a hamper for a decent Christmas.

All suggested households

a need is found, hampers are sent out—a couple of days before Christmas except for last-minute requests.

In the hamper are such things as a roast or fowl, depending on family size, fresh and canned vegetables and fruit, bread and butter, Christmas cake and candy.

The hampers are made up by co-operating merchants, with donations from schools and other sources sometimes added by the Army.

Maj. Freewing said, can consist of such things as fuel, food, clothing, fares for the stranded and even prescriptions, in cases where sick persons are awaiting assistance through regular channels.

There is no financial goal for the kettle collections, he said. "We ask people to be as generous as they can."

Maj. Freewing said provision of hampers and emergency relief is not contingent on kettle receipts but on the need.

"If we have a need to meet we'll meet the need and we'll look at finances later."

An unusual feature of kettle collection this year came yesterday when 12 members of the Victoria Gyro manned an Army kettle outside the civic polling booth at Government and Cormorant from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The kettles had their origin in Boston when, in caring for the survivors of a shipwreck, the local Army unit ran out of supplies and an Army woman hung out a kettle at a street corner seeking donations.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Cited aloft beautifully by a Thor-Delta rocket, a satellite called Relay slid into orbit Thursday night and soaked up solar energy in preparation for a series of communications experiments linking three continents.

A little more than three hours after liftoff, as Relay completed its first trip around the earth, a spokesman for the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it was in orbit and "the orbit looks extremely close to nominal."

CHRISTMAS TV

First contact with Relay will be made today. If all goes well, the public will witness a Christmas television spectacular linking 11 countries in Europe and North America through Relay next Wednesday. The program will feature Valaisade preparations on both continents.

Relay is a first cousin to the Europe-U.S.-linking Telstar satellite.

'Heart' Built In Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—A 150-man team of Canadian engineers and technicians built the vital receiver-transmitter of the relay communications satellite.

John D. Houlding, president of RCA Victor Company Limited of Canada, developer of the "heart," said "all Canadians can take personal pride in the launching" of Relay I.

The Canadian team was led by Bruce MacKinnon, head of the company's technical division, and James A. Brooks, the project manager.

Question Marks

Bennett Vote Date His Best Weapon

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Facing a two-pronged attack capable of extinguishing Social Credit's light in B.C., Premier Bennett's most effective weapon is his prerogative to name the date of the next provincial election.

He has from now until late in 1963 to go to the people and already some newspapers are speculating on whether he will go early or late. Such speculation is not of the usual once-removed-from-fact variety but is twice removed because it must anticipate what the premier will decide and not what he has decided.

For if there is one certainty on B.C.'s ever-changing political scene it is that no election timing has yet jelled. Premier Bennett is regarded even among his foes as an astute political strategist and he would hardly crystallize his tactics without the knowledge to be gained from the Dec. 17 Vancouver-Point Grey by-election and the legislative session which commences Jan. 24.

The current crop of election

'City on the Move' SQUARE WINS 'YES'

Four-to-One Vote Backs Project

By IAN STREET

Victoria last night surged into its second century of municipal government with a smashing four-to-one endorsement by ratepayers of the Centennial Square civic plaza project.

"The city is on the move," said a jubilant Mayor R. B. Wilson. "This magnificent endorsement of the scheme is a clear indication that the people of Victoria want immediate action, which city council will provide." (See Page 2.)

QUICK ACTION

Ald. A. W. Toone, in charge of planning the project, and one of three incumbents who won re-election last night, said his committee will meet Monday to implement the mandate given to council.

"This is the first indication of solid progress towards a more beautiful and economically healthy Victoria," he said. The vote on the bylaw to give council authority to borrow up to $850,000 to carry out the project within four years was 4,096 in favor, 1,019 against. It required a 60 per cent majority to pass.

'DELIGHTED'

Ald. Arthur Dowell, also re-elected, said that as chairman of finance he had no doubt yesterday's vote ensured the Centennial Square project will "proceed with all haste." He

Dressless Lass Tricked by Toe

DENVER (UPI)—Linda Jane Hinchman is a freshman at Colorado Women's College here. She is a lovely brunette, 17 years old, from Glenwood, Ind.

She was taking a bath in preparation for the evening meal Thursday night when she decided to stick her toe into the water faucet.

It got stuck.

A distress call brought four Denver squad cars with sirens screaming, fire equipment and ladder crews.

Five Denver firemen charged up the stairs and dashed into the bathroom, by now crowded with giggling girls as well as the well-bundled Miss Hinchman.

Assistant Fire chief John de Jong said, "We did our job and got out of there."

The firemen sawed off the faucet and extricated the toe with petroleum jelly.

Miss Hinchman kept the faucet for a souvenir.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mariner II, a 447-pound package of measuring devices and radio equipment, brushes past Venus at 3:01 p.m. EST today, a mere 30,000 miles or so from the planet.

Crossing their fingers against any last-hour difficulty, scientists on both U.S. coasts prepared toavedrop on Mariner's 42 minutes of special near-Venus reports.

The coded signals will be relayed to telephone and amplified at a press conference here.

The special data sheet will be Mariner II.

Vancouver Plan

Tube to Link North Shore

VANCOUVER (CP)—A proposal for a $30,000,000 tunnel and bridge harbor crossing between Vancouver and suburban North Shore communities was unveiled Thursday by Premier Bennett.

It would involve a tunnel, 4,000 feet long, and a man-made 200-acre island near the harbor entrance. Financing would be handled privately by the two firms proposing to build the project.

Their venture has "the full sympathy" of the government, Mr. Bennett said.

BRIDGE PRESENT

The province would in turn hand over the First Narrows bridge—one of the two existing crossings to North and West Vancouver—to the municipalities concerned.

An early start could see the tunnel finished in four years. Companies involved are Christiani and Nielson of Canada Ltd. and Foundation of Canada Engineering Corp. Ltd.

RUN TO ISLAND

A spokesman for Christiani and Nielson said the four-lane tunnel would run from West Vancouver to the island, where traffic would take a bridge to Vancouver.

The three-lane First Narrows Bridge—known as Lion's Gate—now serves West Vancouver with considerable rush-hour delay.

The engineering firms also envision a high-rise apartment

Six Negroes were killed and three white policemen were wounded Wednesday in an armed clash near the home of Transkei's senior tribal chief, Matanzima.

● Each buyer also knows that he has helped the 500 unfortunate Victoria families, in straitened circumstances, who will receive a cheque from the 500 Fund.

Buyers will find a giant selection of almost everything possible in toyland up for auction when the sale begins.

Maynards donate their premises and staff and a professional auctioneer for the sale.
